NUMBER THIRTY-THREE

Osceola County Must Vote The Proposed Road Bond Issue On April 12th To Maintain Progressive Standing In Florida

Election Called On Bond Issue For Monday, April 12, Of Vital Importance To Every Taxpayer In The County--Bond Issue Will Supply Complete System of Good Wide Roads Connecting All Parts Of County And With Adjoining Counties.

On next Monday, April 12, the property owners of Osceola County will have an opportunity of determining whether this County shall maintain its progressive place among the leading counties in the state, or whether we shall remain at standstill.

A special election has been called at the request of many voters in the county to adopt certain roads to be improved and to authorize the issuance of $2,000,000 county bonds to complete the work proposed. Every road has been surveyed and estimates furnished the county commissioners, and these roads have been decided on at the request of the property owners in the sections where the roads are to be constructed.

On Saturday the Commissioners will hold a special meeting to award contracts for this work, subject to the bonds being voted at the special election to be held on Monday the 12th. Thus the commissioners will know, as well as all voters will know, before the bonds are voted that the specified roads can be obtained for the amounts set aside for each road specified.

Never before in the history of Osceola County has there been such a wide demand for improved roads as has been made during the past year, and the Commissioners referred the various demands to their engineers for surveys and estimates and have combined all the main through county roads and connecting neighborhood roads into one bond issue to submit at one time. This gives such a quantity of road work to be bid for, that it is believed the Commissioners will obtain the best work at the lowest figure that any hard-surface roads have ever been constructed in the county.

NO COUNTY BONDS NOW

Osceola County is one of the very few counties in the state that has no county bond issue outstanding. There are some sub-district roads bonds and sub-district school bonds, but there are NO COUNTY-WIDE Bonds outstanding against Osceola county. This condition of county finances will result in a good price being obtained for the bonds when offered for sale after they are voted.

It is the duty of every property owner to go out Monday and vote FOR the bond issue, and keep Osceola County in the front ranks of growing and progressive counties in the State.

The amount of the Bond issue is $2,000,000.

The roads that will be constructed from these funds have been determined as follows, and are included in the specifications and conditions under which the election is called.

KISSIMMEE-MELBOURNE ROAD

That certain road known as the Kissimmee-Melbourne road, beginning at the Corporate limits of the City of Kissimmee, Florida, and running to the Brevard County line, and connecting at that point with the improved State Road No. 24.

Not over Two Hundred Seventy-five Thousand ($275,000.00) Dollars of the proceeds of the sale of said bonds shall be expended for the construction and/or re-construction of said Kissimmee-Melbourne Road.

KISSIMMEE PARK ROAD

That certain road known as Kissimmee Park road beginning at its junction with the Kissimmee-Melbourne road, and running from said junction to Kissimmee Park and Finney Point, for a distance of approximately eight miles.

PLEASANT HILL ROAD

That certain road known as the Pleasant Hill road, beginning at its junction with the Dixie Highway between Kissimmee and Campbell Station, and running from said junction into the Pleasant Hill Settlement, for a distance of approximately ten miles.

LAKE WILSON ROAD

That certain road known as the Lake Wilson road, beginning at a point on the present Kissimmee-Lake Wilson road, leading from Kissimmee to Shulze Creek, and running from said point to the Lake Wilson Settlement, and connecting with the Lake Wilson present hard surface road at the Orange County line, a distance of approximately ten miles.

PARTIN SETTLEMENT ROAD

That certain road known as the Partin Settlement Road, beginning at its junction on the present brick road between Kissimmee and St. Cloud, and running through the Partin Settlement to the St. Cloud City limits, a distance of approximately 4 1/2 miles.

HILLIARD ISLAND ROAD

That certain road known as the Hilliard Island Road, beginning at a point on said road where the present brick road running from Kissimmee toward Hilliard Island terminates and running towards Hilliard Island a distance of approximately four miles from said beginning point.

NARCOOSSEE ROAD

That certain road known as the Narcoossee Road, beginning at the point where the brick paving in the City of Narcoossee now terminates, and running to the Orange County line, a distance of approximately four miles.

NEW EDEN ROAD

Beginning at the end of the present hard surfaced road in Narcoossee and running East and South a distance of approximately one-half mile.

LAKE MYRTLE ROAD

Beginning at a point on the road to be constructed from the end of the present hard surfaced road in Narcoossee to the Orange County line, where it crosses Lee Street, and running a distance of approximately one-half mile.

KENANSVILLE ROAD

That certain road known as the Kenansville Road, beginning at a point West of the Florida East Coast Railroad right of way, where the Melbourne-Kissimmee highway crosses the Florida East Coast Railroad line to Okeechobee City, Florida, and running from said point on said Melbourne-Kissimmee highway South parallel to the said railroad to the point where said railroad crosses the Osceola County line, a distance of approximately thirty-six miles.

PINE ISLAND ROAD

That certain road known as the Pine Island road, beginning at its junction with the present brick road between Kissimmee and St. Cloud, and running thence South along the present route of the Pine Island road, for a distance of approximately two miles.

ST. CLOUD-HICKORY TREE ROAD

That certain road known as the St. Cloud-Hickory Tree road beginning at the City limits of St. Cloud and running along the present route of the St. Cloud-Hickory Tree Road for a distance of approximately three miles.

Osceola County Needs Those Roads---Your Vote Will Help

A century ago Florida had beauty.

Her two coast lines were as intact as they are today; her great central area, with its myriad lakes and perfect year round climate, was then as now.

Florida has not changed in any degree so far as her natural charm and habitable areas are concerned.

Yet in the past decade a new Florida has emerged from a most mediocre past.

A Florida that has at once the languid, soothing charm of the tropics and the bustling, wide awake life of the modern city.

Where villages and cart paths once stood there are now cities and fine approaches.

Commerce, which at one time was confined to desultory citrus growth, has become a factor in the life of the entire country.

Again—Florida—the Florida that has been here since the dawn that first sun kissed the ripples of its many lakes—has not changed.

What then is the answer.

Simple, yet effective.

Good roads that have given the millions from all over the world a chance to come into this country have brought to it a prosperity and a development which a few years ago was outside the vision of the most rabid dreamer.

Good roads that allow automobiles of every make to travel across the surface of this land of new enchantment bringing enthusiastic visitors into the state by the thousands have written across the history of Florida a chapter that will live as long as there is a state.

Not alone has the east and west coast been opened to those who want to be close to the sea, but the great back country, the real potential wealth of Florida, has been opened to this travel.

Areas of rich territory, undreamed of in the brief past are now ready for the farmer. Secluded and charming spots where isolated

What Good Roads Have Done For State of Florida

By B. HODGES MARDEN

Talked a lot with folk during the past few weeks, the kind of folk I like to talk to. They are going right ahead with plans for the biggest financial year Florida has ever had and they don't mind telling you that they haven't time to discuss anything except these plans.

Some people come down here for their health and they are generally satisfied if their health isn't so far gone that they need a new heart valve; some of the people I talked with, came down here to see what it was all about—and they found out and stayed here.

Lots of others came here because they saw a field for a work they wanted to do. There is but one real object in life after you analyze it thoroughly and that is to keep going as long as you can and do as much as you can while you're going.

Strikes me you can do more in a given time down here and get more results than any place I've visited. Those who used to come down south for a rest now go to Europe—the pace isn't so fast over there.

This is a country where the eight hour day is more or less of a myth. Once in a while I meet these eight hour folk, but for the most part the ones I talk with work eight or ten hours a day and then try and squeeze in some few hours on the night shift.

So you see after all there is no real reason why with this kind of a spirit, this Florida shouldn't be up and booming in great shape along about summer when people get their Easter bills paid and begin to look around for some place to put the rest of their money.

They are like that. Give most men $10 and they'll spend a dollar right fast just to convince themselves that it's good money and they own it and then they look around to see what they can trade off with the other $9.

There are really but two reasons down here you know. Work season and fishing season. When a man isn't working you can pretty generally go out back of the garage and find his fishing pole is gone and put it down that he has decided to see how the bass are striking.

When he comes back he'll outride you're eye teeth if you don't watch out for it makes a man feel rather keen and up to the minute after he's beaten a few game ones with the rod and line.

Spring is a great time to go fishing. Weather kind of makes you want to do that sort of thing.

This is spring and so it is better perhaps to let out a little surplus energy down here in the sub tropics by playing with the the big ones in the lake—for after all that's the principle reason we have lakes according to the followers of Walton—and then come back and work all the harder for the play time.

Which is apropos the fact that if you don't vote for the road bond issue and show the rest of the country that Osceola stands four square for the Florida of tomorrow—you'll have little chance to regret it for the rest of the state will pass you so quick you won't know they're going by.

Glad to see Orange county pass the seven million dollar bond issue—did it right after raising eight hundred thousand for a Y. M. C. A. building too—

That's progress.

Osceola needs those roads and your vote will put them over and if you've never been on the band wagon before this is your one sure chance to climb aboard.

Any one can use shanks mare;

It's takes a live one to grab the music wagon as it goes by.

Bond Issue Flashes

Here's what some of the live wire boosters think about this road bond issue:

It will go over six to one. Everybody is for it and just waiting for the chance to vote.

JNO. J. JOHNSTON.

When Osceola passes the road bond issue she will take her greatest forward step in a decade.

MAYOR G. C. OUTLAW.

It is a simple question of arithmetic. How much majority will the road bond issue roll up.

S. W. PORTER.

Holopaw says she is going 100 per cent for the bond issue. St. Cloud and Kissimmee can do hardly less than that.

C. C. PIKE.

Let's show this Orange county crowd that we're right on their heels and if they don't turn out we'll be climbing right on their bumper.

JOHN BAILEY.

I haven't got anything to advertise but you just tell them I'm for this bond issue 1000 per cent.

JOHN B. CARLIN.

SALIENT FACTS ABOUT FLORIDA LAWS ON CORPORATIONS

Salient features of Florida's corporation laws, as printed in a booklet and distributed by the Florida Development Board, have been reprinted to give greater circulation to facts that are interesting to many now looking in this direction. The summary of the situation as regarding corporations is concise and easily understood. To further its import it is again re-produced:

Florida law prohibits a levy of state income tax.

Florida prohibits levy of a state inheritance tax.

There is no state stamp tax on stock issues or transfers.

Incorporation may be completed quickly.

No resident director is required, but there must be a resident agent.

It is not necessary that directors be stockholders.

A Florida corporation may issue shares of stock, both preferred and common, without nominal or par value, fully paid and non-assessable, for consideration or at a price fixed by the directors.

A Florida corporation can begin business with capital as low as $500.

Any meeting of stockholders or directors may be held either within or without this state.

Fully paid stock may be issued for property, services or cash. The judgment of the directors respecting the value of the consideration is conclusive in the absence of fraud.

Florida corporations may hold stocks, bonds or securities of other corporations, real and personal property, within or without the state, without limitation as to amount.

They may purchase shares of their own capital stock and hold and redeem or cancel them.

Different classes of stock, with such preferences and voting powers or without voting powers, may be issued as may be desired, and without limitation as to rate of dividends or relative amounts issued.

Florida corporations protect the private property of stockholders from liability for corporate debts.

Give their directors power to make and alter by-laws.

Provide for cumulative voting, if desired.

Amend their charters from time to time.

Merge or consolidate with other corporations.

Florida does not assess a yearly privilege or franchise tax on capital stock of corporations.

Florida corporations may issue bonds, debentures or other obligations, without limit as to amount, and give bondholders power to vote, if desired.

May have perpetual existence.

May declare and pay stock dividends.

Provide for capitalization to any desired amount.

Fix the par value of their stock at any desired figure.

Keep all their books and records outside of Florida, except an original duplicate stock ledger.

Withhold, restrict or enlarge the voting power of any class of stock as desired.

Voting trusts may be created.

Whichever it would seem to be a business invitation to all fair-minded and well-interested incorporations to make Florida their headquarters. Except to the distant mind that sees every group of men assembling for whatever purpose of business, the combinations of capital for exploitation of industry and business generally are welcomed and applauded. Without corporations very little of the world progress should have been made.

Only a few probably pause to realize that individual possibilities as against a combination of two or more looking enterprises and auditions with capital and realize in short time what it would have required years to accomplish alone. The corporation, as understood today, is the means of obtaining results that are beneficial to the world.

Florida needs many new corporations to develop her wonderful resources and to care for her swiftly increasing demands. Industry which almost immediately suggests a combination of energies and capital, is invited here and assured of success. It is also assured fair treatment on the part of the state government.

Not Afraid

When Mrs. B. M. Halbert received news of her favorite granddaughter's illness she chartered an aeroplane and flew from San Angelo, Texas, to the bedside of the sick child in Decatur, Ill. The trip was made dangerous by storms and darkness but when asked about the flight she said she was "not afraid."

persons built their homes have been discovered and other homes are going up, by the thousands all over the state.

These homes are being built—these farmers are coming into Florida—this growth is going ahead daily at a rate to challenge the imagination of the great of dreamers—because it has been found that Florida is accessible.

Good roads have done this.

Good roads will do as much more.

Good roads for Osceola county means progress—substantial and satisfying and—

To the ones who are looking at the matter from a purely investment angle—

Good roads means money in pocket.

There can be no investment in Florida that is safer—that is more positive to return an excessive interest on the money involved—than good roads.

There is no dissenting opinion on this.

No man can successfully challenge the fact that to vote against good roads for Osceola county would be to vote absolutely against his own interest.

So this is written with a view to striking home to those who are thinking of the road bond issue in terms of "What it will cost me?"

Forcefully and emphatically with the thought that to vote against this issue is to take a step backward from which there can be no receding once it is done.

It seems not to be so much a matter of whether the road bond issue is good; whether or not it will pass, but it is a question of passing it by such a majority of votes that it will at once go forth to the rest of the state as an answer to critics and a declaration of faith and optimistic vision in the great future which is just ahead of this Florida of ours.

Concluding a survey of the county it would appear that the issue will be put over by at least six to one. This is most.

To do this will be the greatest thing that Osceola county can accomplish in 1936.

What is the matter with Florida? Is there anything basically wrong?

Like most successful persons suddenly reaching a high point in their achievements, the entire state is the target of well intended advice from the inside while from without frozen compliments are given apparently without rhyme or reason.

Julius Caesar left Rome with a comparatively small army of men and brought the territories which are now the nations of Spain, France, Germany and England under the Roman rule. He became for the time the most popular man of his nation.

Then came criticism, not from his enemies alone, but from those who might have been his friends and whose interests he was serving.

Charlemagne brought the world to his feet and out of chaos formed a vast empire through his constructive genius.

Frederick the Great, poet, dreamer, musician, man of determination and constructive action, brought to check a multiplicity of quarreling states and minor principalities and formed the German empire.

FLORIDA IS GOOD STATE FOR FARMER

From the farmer's standpoint, Florida is far ahead of many states that have gained reputations for having profitable farm lands, according to a statement by George W. Coughlin, of Coughlin & Co., New York, who has been commissioned to offer at auction a number of vacant parcels of land in this state within the next few weeks.

The New York auctioneer is studying reports of the United States Department of Agriculture, which disclose that the average value of farm products in Florida, per acre, is $100.70, compared with average values of $12.22, in Iowa; $12.48, in Illinois, and $13.36, in Ohio. According to the same authority the average gross revenues of various crops in Florida, per acre, are as follows: Strawberries, $444; potatoes, $302; cucumbers, $705; peaches, $400; lettuce, $533; eggplant, $302; cabbage, $202.

Regarding these statistics, the New York Herald-Tribune, in an issue this week, recalls that "The fertility of the purchase of Florida from Spain for $5,000,000 was the chief political discussion of 1821. Although the price averaged about 25 cents an acre, the wise folk of the country, including a lot of men in the national capital, bewailed such wanton use of public funds. The federal officers who engineered the deal were dubbed for permitting the crafty Spaniard to outwit them in other quarters the transaction aroused suspicion.

The land which developed so much political umbrage and suspicion, has multiplied 1,000 times in value in the last century. Conservative estimates place the value of Florida land at $5,250,000,000 which is an average of $150 an acre.

The great advance in Florida values has come in the last few years. Until the recent real estate activity the upward movement of property worth had been tediously slow. Sixty years after the deal with Spain one could get any amount of property at 25 cents an acre. Recently property which had been purchased at that figure was sold at auction for $700 an acre.

With the exception of a favored few, every man is more or less a merchant in some sense of the word.

Whether he sells merchandise over the counter or sells his services at a certain price by the day or hour.

Regardless of his source of income, it is to his interests to locate in a community that is progressive.

No city or county can expect to prosper to the utmost extent unless it realizes the importance of keeping the avenues of commerce or travel in the best possible condition.

THIS MEANS GOOD ROADS.

With good roads, the added prosperity will more than offset any slight increase in taxation.

We favor the bond issue, and every thoughtful citizen will do the same.

WHAT FLORIDA HAS ACCOMPLISHED

Is Told in Barrett's Book of Facts

Florida has belonged to the United States one hundred and five years.

Among the states of the Union, it is the thirty-second in population and thirty-seventh in density of population.

Florida is an arm of land about one hundred miles wide, extending down five hundred miles into mild seas, giving it the finest year-round climate in the world.

Gentle winds from each side blow continuously, modifying the heat of summer and the cold of winter.

The average temperature in Jacksonville, the state's northern-most city, is 55 degrees in January and 82 degrees in July—the coldest and hottest months.

The state has had three disastrous freezes in ninety years.

The thermometer has recorded 100 degrees within the state fourteen times in ninety years.

One was swim in the surf, pick December.

Sun strokes are unknown and no one is frost bitten in Florida.

Summer vacations in Florida are growing more popular. Good roads make sea beaches accessible to all parts of the state. Gentle breezes are the rule during the day and the nights are always comfortable for sleeping.

Within the last two years more miles of new trunk line roads were constructed in Florida than in all the other states combined.

Key West is the nearest port to the Panama Canal and is only ninety miles from Cuba, with steamer and airplane connections.

A state law prohibits assessment of mortgages on Florida real estate and prohibits assessment of stock in Florida corporations when properly owned by such corporations has been assessed. Intangible, such as bonds, notes and cash are seldom found on tax rolls.

In thirty-four of its sixty-seven counties real estate is assessed at less than twenty-five per centum of its cash value. Some counties are assessed as low as from five to ten per cent.

The total amount of farm mortgages in Florida is less than two per cent the total farm value.

Florida's water supply is unusually free from impurities; the State abounds with artesian wells.

Some of the largest springs in the world are in Florida. One of these has a daily flow of ten million barrels of water, is eighty feet deep, clear as crystal and large enough to float a steamship.

The St. John's is the nation's longest and largest river flowing north.

You can go fishing, boating and surf bathing when the waters of the north are covered with ice.

Florida has more miles of surfaced roads per capita than any other state. Automobiles from every state sing along our highways and comfortable lodging places dot the roadside.

For highway construction and upkeep the state assesses a gasoline tax of four cents per gallon, one cent of which is remitted to the counties from which collected. It is estimated that the state's portion of this tax for 1934 will reach six million dollars.

The state has ten thousand miles of good roads, some of the best in the world, and is rapidly building more.

A thirty-foot concrete speedway extends from Jacksonville to the Atlantic ocean, twenty miles, and is electric lighted.

The legal automobile speed limit in the state is 45 miles per hour.

Florida has the finest sea beaches in the world—many of them 500 to 1,000 feet in width.

Adding lake and river fronts to the eleven hundred miles of sea coast, Florida has 9,500 miles of beautiful water front, enough to accommodate one million homes and have five million people dwelling comfortably on the margin of its waters.

St. Petersburg, widely known as Florida's Sunshine City, averages only five sunless days per year.

The state has five trunk-line railroads, numerous steamship lines and a half dozen year-round ports on the ocean and gulf.

There are a score of navigable rivers and thousands of lakes, bays and inlets.

Florida has 2,218 common schools, 250 high schools, 4 state schools for higher education, 16 denominational colleges, three industrial schools, one for boys, one for girls and one for the deaf and blind.

It is a little known fact that artificial ice was first manufactured in Florida. Patent No. 8090, covering an ice machine, was issued to Dr. John Gorrie of Apalachicola May 6th, 1850. A statue of Dr. Gorrie—perhaps humanity's greatest benefactor—is Florida's contribution to the Hall of Fame in the national capitol.

The gardens, fields and groves of Florida produce something good to eat every month of the year.

There are 200 different varieties of crops, fruits, nuts and vegetables grown in Florida and shipments out of the state average one car every five minutes, day and night, the year round.

As a mere introductory to the variety of crops, note these trinites: Potatoes, peaches and peanuts; bananas, beans and berries; oranges, oysters and onion; peaches, pears and plums; celery, cabbages and cucumbers; pineapples, peppers and peas; grapes, guavas and grapefruit.

The potato, tomato, tobacco, corn, pecans, peanuts were all unknown before Columbus. All are staple in Florida.

Jacksonville is the largest shipping port for naval stores in the world.

The "egg" of Florida are not all in one basket. We have cotton, corn, lumber, live stock, naval stores, phosphate, vegetables, citrus fruits and an enormous patronage from the traveling public.

The state production of manufactured forest, mineral and sea food products reaches two hundred million dollars annually.

Sugar cane grows well in all parts of the state. Florida could be made the sugar bowl and syrup barrel of the United States.

Florida can provide homesites for ten millions population; winter homes, playgrounds and parks for five millions tourists; and farm, truck and fruit land enough to feed both host and visitors.

In 1880 Henry Dismont came to the financial aid of Florida by purchasing four million acres of land for one million dollars—or twenty-five cents per acre. The state has been continuously in "easy circumstances" since that date.

There are more than 100 different kinds of soil in Florida, which grow more than 200 varieties of crops, fruits, nuts and vegetables. Eighty of these are grown commercially and shipments out of the state average 200 carloads daily.

Of the eighty crops that are shipped from Florida in car lots, sixty-two are grown in Florida when most of the other states are covered with snow.

To make a success one year with another a farmer should have several sources of income. He has these in Florida, which is not a one-crop state.

Home folks and visitors usually consider citrus fruit, vegetables and tourists as the main sources of Florida income, overlooking the fifty-million dollars from lumber and forty million dollars from cigars and the twenty-five million dollars from fish and other seafood, not to speak of live stock and poultry.

At important fairs Florida-bred swine have taken blue ribbons in competition with hogs from all other states, including the International Live Stock Exhibition.

Florida, with its flowers and fruit blossoms, is the natural home of the bee and honey is shipped in car lots.

Geographically speaking, the state lies south of latitude 31—between which and the Canadian border there lies a market for the crops that Florida alone can grow in the winter months.

Farm women in some sections of Sweden cook their coffee in glass water bottles.

ST. CLOUD SONG

"Tune Salvation Is Free."

There's a Florida song, and her slogan as well;
And so should each town be endowed;
And as we already have our ST. CLOUD yell,
I will sing you a song of ST. CLOUD.
Oh ST. CLOUD, fair ST. CLOUD, you are sure growing great;
You're a city of which we are proud;
For there's not a city in Florida state
Where folks excel those of ST. CLOUD.

It is not the worth of the things that we own,
But the social life joyful and true;
It is not the size that our city has grown,
But the good that our citizens do
That gives "Wonder City" a right to its name—
A name that is justly allowed;
And each added year it increases in fame,
Thru the friendship of folks in ST. CLOUD.

The spirit of comradeship always is strong,
And, aided by all who play fair
And strive to do right and avoid all wrong, Puts all of ST. CLOUD on the square.
The land, climate, water, and produce are good,
And bring tourists here in big crowds;
But, best of all, it is well understood:
There's no folks on the Earth like ST. CLOUD'S.

TOOK PARTS FROM ALL LANDS TO PUT IT INTO FLORIDA

Have you heard the story of the birth of Florida?

When God created America the scabbles of liberty where the stars and stripes, the emblem of freedom, should forever wave. He placed on the west the lofty Rockies with their towering peaks, piercing the blue canopy of Heaven, standing like sentinels over the broad Pacific. And on the east he placed the Appalachian range, with its bosom sloping gently to the Atlantic, inviting people of other lands to come and abide thereon. And between He placed the Mississippi, with its tentacles reaching into the confine of the mountains and sucking therefrom the water which would carry the commerce of its people to the sea.

And when God had made this wondrous land, and with vision limitless looked down the aisle of Time and saw the mighty empire that would be builded thereon, He said:

"It is well that these people should have some place, some spot, where they may have a vision of Paradise and partake for a moment the sweetness of Life Everlasting."

And so He took from every part of this great land of America some of the best of each, and with it He mingled the sparkling mosaic of a midsummer night and the glorious golden sunshine of a perfect day, and into it all He breathed the spirit of happiness.

Thus was Florida born.

A BOOM AD INFINITUM

Florida is the only place in the country where you can pick fresh strawberries from your garden and go swimming on New Year's day.

Florida is the only state that has the land and a climate suitable for the production of three crops a year.

Florida is one of the very few, if not the only state in the Union, that has not a single death from summer heat prostration on record.

Florida is the only state that can supply the rest of the country with large quantities of fresh fruits and vegetables throughout the winter season.

Florida is one of the few places in the world where manufacturers can operate large industrial plants without danger of their operation being curtailed by severely cold winters or terrifically hot summers.

Florida is a place where sick people come to die—and then live to record old ages.

Florida has more sunshine per day than any other state in the Union—and fewer droughts.

Florida is a state that cannot collect income or inheritance taxes.

Florida is a place where children play in the open the year-round; where flowers are in bloom every month, and where the birds are always singing.

Florida is a place where every citizen's constitutional right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness is aided and abetted by all of the elements.

The so-called Florida boom started when the Spaniards first pioneered this land many centuries ago. It has been growing steadily and surely ever since. It has always appealed to people as a highly desirable place to live. It always will. It will continue to grow and develop as long as there are people on this earth who seek the advantages and enjoyments and comforts of life.—Florida Grower.

Setting a Good Example

There's plenty of inspiration for young men in the career of Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of the United States Steel Corporation.

Elbert Gary, as a boy spent time he might have used for recreation in studying the legal aspects of finance. He says now that he didn't know just what he was preparing for, but he felt that some day his "big chance" would come, and that he would be ready for it.

And his chance did come, but not until he was past middle age. The Morgans, in their desire to find the man with the proper background and proper calibre to direct the greatest industry of all times, the steel business, chose Elbert Gary.

In the days of the organization of the corporation, promoters of the enterprise retired after each day of wrangling to play poker.

Gary didn't play poker. Gary did not make a night of it with the boys. Gary used to go to his room to plan his attack for the next business day.

Nor did he "celebrate" the twenty-fifth anniversary of his connection with the corporation the other day. "Just another day for business," he said, and went about his work.

Detroit says our pioneer women never had nicotine stained fingers or crapped knees, to which Louisville reports our modern women have no snuff stains on their teeth and no whale-bone corsets.

The State of New York reports 1925 as the healthiest year in its history. John F. Hyland of the city of New York however, is said to have filed a dissenting opinion.

'WHAT'S WHAT' IN OSCEOLA COUNTY TOLD BY SPECIAL SENTINEL WRITER

By R. HODGES MARDEN

KEESWATER, March 3.—For a week I have been traveling through a country every acre of which holds a challenge to the man who is willing to combine elbow grease with vision and expend a few dollars to make his dreams come true.

There are acres and acres of land, reasonably priced so that the man of moderate means can come in and start farming on a small scale; there are city lots in beautiful surroundings, close to schools and churches, ideal places for the family to settle, within reach of the average man's pocketbook; there are business opportunities in catering to a growing city population and suburban clientele, unexcelled in Florida. These are the things that I have found as I wandered with the old Buick over the highways of Osceola county in an effort to find out the "What's what" of this section of central Florida.

Out of the mass of facts and figures that have been presented to me for study, out of the mass of detail that has come under my observation, there has been evolved a picture that carries with it an appeal to all those who, with an eye on Florida, are seeking a land where they can plant a home amid the comforts of city life or close to growing cities and be assured of an even chance of making a decent living.

Beyond placing Osceola county in the heart of Florida, I am eliminating the state as a unit and focusing my attention on this county as an industrial development.

You find here what amounts to a gigantic corporation. It is a county of 100,000 persons, owned and controlled by a citizenship made up of city and farmer units.

It is in the embryonic stage of development, albeit the area is as old in years as any section of the state. This corporation which we have figuratively built has invested millions in this section.

There are thousands of acres being devoted to the building up of a farming industry.

Thousands more of these acres are being turned into town sites and small estates.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars are being spent in the upbuilding of recreational facilities for visiting thousands.

There is a great inland waterway proposed the two of its terminals on Lake Tohopeuliga in this county giving access to the Gulf coast and the Atlantic coast.

There are thousands of acres of standing timber, a background for a great lumber industry that is established.

In the background is the mythical board of directors of this figurative corporation—a board of directors composed of men who have invested their own millions in the future of this section.

With this panoramic picture of opportunity spread before him, the small investor and the big capitalist can draw his own conclusions of what an investment in the stock of this mythical corporation will be worth to him.

When a settler comes to Osceola county to farm, to enter its civic and business life, to take active part in its development, he may not call it by this name—but he is buying stock in the future of one of Florida's greatest producing centers.

This stock will be worth just what he and his associates make it. Nature has given man free rein in this area, providing rich soils and boundless opportunity for farming, poultry raising and dairying.

The vision of the early developers has made it possible for the investors to reap the rewards that come with growing cities and a continued business activity.

Those who get in on the ground floor have reaped big rewards, and will reap larger rewards in the future. Those who get in now will participate in these returns. Those who wait for the development to be complete will pay the price that those who hesitate always pay where big developments are in question.

This is the picture of Osceola county I would draw for you after a week spent in roaming about its highways, meeting its people and learning its ways.

Everywhere there is the optimism that follows legitimate and constructive development.

Everywhere there is the steady going ahead with plans and operations entailing millions. On every hand there is faith in a future that looms big on the horizon of tomorrow.

Keeswater, a city of 15,000 in five years—St. Cloud, springing out of nothing into prominence over night—back country that is being prepared for the rush of farmers, poultry raisers and citrus fruit growers—highways that are being made possible where only dirt roads existed—roads that are being remade out of the white sand bottom of the great lake—recreational centers that are taking a shape and form to entice the most discriminating traveler to this region.

That is the Osceola county I have met face to face and found impressive in a land where developments are big and vision is rampant.

DAUGHTERS OF VETERANS BIRTHDAY

The Daughters of Veterans, Tent No. 1 held the February and March birthday party Tuesday afternoon, March 23 in the upper G. A. R. hall.

On account of the rain and so many being detained at home by illness themselves or their families, only fourteen sisters and three brothers were present.

There were three guests of honor present sisters Nettie Benedict, Ella R. Slater and Minnie Barber, the two last named having same birthday March 21 with seven years between.

The guests at this party will have to serve at the next party. About four o'clock the president called for a grand march around the room, with music by Comrade Raymond on the violin to a table beautifully decorated and beautifully filled with ice cream, cakes, fruits and punch.

All had a pleasant time visiting and listening to music furnished by sister Barber and Comrade Raymond, before the refreshments were served. All absent members were missed and hope all can be present at next party.

If you do not like our scenery,
Our weather or our shows;
If you cannot stand our traffic,
The prices and the rates,
Business and trains are daily leaving
For forty seven states

If you do not want to pay for meals,
But want your wages high;
If you want to make a million,
Yet at noon rest bowl and cry;
If your hands are soft your knickerbockers white,
If you like to sit and wait,
Why knock our town?
There is room for you
In forty seven other states.

If you cannot boast St. Cloud,
Which has just begun to grow;
If you sneer at all our play things,
Where our thousands daily go;
If you only came to grab—and have Those pushing, knocking trails,
You can buy a ticket, stranger,
For forty seven other states.

EIGHTEEN HOLE GOLF COURSE FOR MOUNT PLYMOUTH

The Mount Plymouth Corporation, thru Mr. Carl Dann, announces the selection of Mr. Charlie Rowe of Pittsburgh, Pa., as golf professional for the first eighteen hole golf course at Mount Plymouth.

Mr. Rowe, who is one of the world's leading professionals of the ancient and honorable game, was selected after a canvass of the entire field by the Mount Plymouth Corporation, for one capable of holding the position as professional for the best golf course in Florida.

The services of Mr. Rowe, who is at present professional at the Oakmont Country Club course, Pittsburgh, Pa., the leading golf course of the Northern States, were selected only after many weeks of effort and then only after Mr. Rowe's personal inspection of the great course that is rapidly nearing completion at Mount Plymouth.

Mr. Rowe stated to a staff reporter that the "Mount Plymouth golf course will, without a doubt, be the quietest and finest course I or anyone else has ever dreamed of in Florida." "I feel singularly honored at the wonderful compliment bestowed upon me by Orlando and the Mount Plymouth Corporation, in seeking my services when the professional field is so wide."

Mr. Rowe's popularity is pronounced by several of his present club members by their statement that "Where Charlie Rowe goes, they go." So that means that Mr. Rowe will attract his great colony of followers to the "Switzerland of Florida," which is destined to be a golf and recreational center second to none in the world.

Mr. W. D. Clark, the outstanding golf course architect in this country, who designed and is at present constructing the first of the four 18-hole courses at Mount Plymouth, states "The selection of Mr. Rowe as professional of the Mount Plymouth golf course is an assurance of the success of Mount Plymouth as a golf center, as I predicted the first time I inspected the wonderful country that we are now coming into a pleasure playground."

Mr. Rowe now holds the course record of the courses at the Orlando Country Club and Dubuque.

POPULAR THEATRE MONDAY AND TUESDAY

Building up to one of the most dramatic and spectacular climaxes ever filmed, with a freight locomotive racing on a parallel track to overtake a "Special" running wild and with a young engineer's courageous jump one roaring monster to the other, "The Midnight Flyer," a sensational melodrama of railroad life in the fog-drenched mountains of West Virginia, comes to the Popular Theatre next Monday and Tuesday for two days showing its first in this locality. The new F. B. O. Gold Bond Special is an adaptation by J. Grubb Alexander of two stories from the pen of Arthur Guy Empey, and it provides both action and drama of an unusual sort. The characterizations alone would make it stand out in a class by itself. An all star cast in which Calico Landis, Dorothy Devore, Roddy Pond, Charles Malls, Frankie Darro, Claire McDowell, Barbara Tennant, Elma Hillings and Alphonse Eklund are the leading lights interprets the play. Tom Forman, who directed "The Midnight Flyer" was fortunate in having the best of material and a corking cast with which to work, and he has made the most of both.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NOTES

The large amount of flowers at Presbyterian church on Sunday added much to the attractive new church.

The side lighting is especially appreciated for the candle effect on wall brackets is very pleasing. Mrs. Lindholm was in fine voice and the familiar hymns were readily understood by the large audience.

Rev. and Mrs. Callan received hearty greetings from their parishioners who were pleased to find them enjoying good health after their return from the Holy Land.

The singing by the male quartet in evening was much enjoyed. Mrs. Liggett very capably assisted all singers.

The new Sunday school rooms will be very pleasing to the classes. Some people kindly transported elderly people in their cars. Mr. Sumerville even making two trips. The size of our audience might be double if it were possible to use their cars more freely for their friends.

At the W. C. T. U. on Friday, Dr. Taylor gave a stirring address in memory of Hon. Nomi Don's birthday. Mr. Dow has been called the Father of Prohibition.

In this week came another pioneer lecturer Dr. Dio Lewis whose mother having suffering by a drinking non-provident husband, got other women to go with her to get run seller to close their shops.

Refreshments were served in honor of the principal donor of the W. C. T. U. building. Mrs. Homemann, of New Jersey, who expected soon to return to that state but has just received a wire that her only brother, who was in the 80's, has passed over, now will delay her return.

Mr. Shore has been missed in singing as a cold has troubled him for sometime. Mrs. Shore was also affected but both are better now.

The company in London operating the omnibus lines issues about 4,000, 000 tickets every day.

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES

Six more candidates were baptized at the evening service last Sunday making thirteen during the last two weeks. Ninety-eight people were present at the Whosoever-Will Bible class, of the church next Sunday morning will be the thirteenth Chapter of Matthew, a very important chapter from a dispensational point of view. There will be a business and social gathering of the class on Thursday evening at the church, all members are requested to be present. The R. Y. P. U. held their monthly business meeting at the church last Tuesday evening followed by light refreshments and a good social time which was enjoyed by all.

The Whosoever-Will Bible class will hold their meeting in the auditorium of the church next Sunday morning as the basement will be ready for the new classes. The church has decided to build another balcony in the north wing of the church as there have been times already when the building was filled to the uttermost and some even turned away.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary E. White of North Massachusetts avenue, will be held in the church on Friday afternoon at two o'clock.

The Seven Trumpets of the Book of Revelation will be the subject for Bible study at the Wednesday evening service.

The Pastor will assist in the dedication service of the North Baptist church of Orlando next Sunday at 2 p. m. Rev. Caterer will preach at the Baptist church at Narcoossee at the same hour.

New organ chairs for the gallery have been ordered and are expected to be here in a few days. Mr. Jno. W. Masary has been appointed by the church on a committee to stand at the door and welcome people as they come to the service and be in certainly right man for the place.

Next Sunday morning is Communion service, the pastor will preach both morning and evening.

H. LUTHERSON, Pastor.

WHAT ABOUT REALTORS?

Florida is the chin wishers of U. S. It is 600 miles long 200 miles wide and 3 feet high. It is bound on north by the 19th amendment and the other three sides by the three-mile limit.

Florida is inhabited by Indians, American white men and feed bag tourists sometimes called tin canners. The birds live on the Everglades, the ducks live on the whites and the whites live on the tourist and the tin canners on the municipal dump grounds. Florida's principle sources of income are hotels, fruit, alligator skins and the vast pocket press agents of California.

But the one big out standing feature of Florida is its fruits, Orange raising coming first.

NEW GOLF COURSE UNDER WAY OF CONSTRUCTION

Dunedin, Fla., April—An army of men reinforced with mule teams, tractors, graders and other machinery have wrought marvels of progress in construction of the new Dunedin Isles Golf course, designed and being built by Donald Ross, America's foremost golf architect for the Frischkorn Florida company, of which E. S. Frischkorn, of Detroit is president. The assurance of Mr. Ross that the course would be ready for play December 1 next is now certain to be realized. When the winter season rolls around and the tide of northern visitors overwhelms the state once more, Florida thus will have another of the finest golf courses to be found anywhere in the world.

"Only the fact that we have the men, the money and the will to do big things on a big scale makes possible such a gigantic task as building the Dunedin Isles Golf course in such a short time," said E. S. Frischkorn, who is himself a golf enthusiast. "Practically all the fairways have been cleared of trees and other obstructions and some of the fairways have already been leveled and will be planted with seed in the very near future. When the new club house is completed, Florida will have another complete golf plant of which the entire state may well be proud."

The new Dunedin Isles Golf course will have a total length of 6415 yards, 3211 yards going out and 3204 yards coming in. The 18 holes which lie entirely in the 465,000,000 development of Dunedin Isles, stretch out over a gently rolling country with the Gulf of Mexico in view a short distance away. Hills, valleys, trees and rivers are being utilized for the building of natural hazards and there will of course be the usual bunkers and traps. The course will be enjoyable to amateur players, and to professionals as well.

Eight of the holes will be water hazards and ten will be dog legs of greater or lesser degree. The shortest hole is 139 yards in length and the longest, 471 yards. There are eight holes of more than 400 yards each, four in the first nine and four in the second. Several of the fairways are being built through producing orange groves. The club house will be located midway between the first and second nines facing a boulevard leading directly to the Gulf of Mexico.

For the second time in 25 years during all of which she has been postmistress of this city, Mrs. E. F. Hope will see Dunedin raised to a second class postoffice on July 1 next. The increase in stamp sales is due primarily to the immense development of Dunedin Isles, backed by E. S. Frischkorn, of Detroit, president of the Frischkorn Florida Company. Alone it has increased the literate population of the city by more than 500 persons, and forced Postmistress Hope to put on additional help to handle the piles of incoming and outgoing mail.

When the postoffice was first established here about 30 years ago it had its humble beginning as a fourth class office. Later it was given a third class rating and still later second class. Business dropped off and the postoffice dropped with it to third class. Now it will again be restored to its high honor as a second class office and Mrs. Hope is correspondingly happy.

Growth of prohibition sentiment in Cumberland, Maryland, has caused that city to change the name of Wine street to Glendwood. Residents of the thoroughfare complained that the former name was obsolete, and furthermore was the butt of much ridicule.

Abulfeida, the Arabian geographer of the thirteenth century, said that the town of Fez, Morocco, got its name when the people who dug the foundations found a fox in the ground.

G. A. R. POST HEAD CELEBRATES HIS 86TH BIRTHDAY

William H. Adams, commander of the George H. Ward post G. A. R., is today celebrating the 86th anniversary of his birth at his home, 40 June street, Mr. Adams in his time of activity, has traveled far and wide throughout the United States, using every conceivable method of transportation, steamboats, automobiles, mules' backs, and the well known "chank's mare" has always taken him somewhere.

Comrade Adams still looks and feels younger by about 15 years than he really is, and is very active in the affairs of the George H. Ward post. He attends its meetings with a surprising regularity and is at present busily engaged in completing the details of the post's anniversary celebration to be held in April.

The spirit of loyalty to this country has been predominant in the Adams' family for generations. Mr. Adams' father, Omer Adams, was a soldier during the War of 1812; Mr. Adams served during the Civil War as a member of G. Co., of the 10th Massachusetts Infantry, 6th corps of the Army of the Potomac, and two grandsons of his, Vernon A. Tilden and Walter A. Band, were members of the A. E. F., the latter making the supreme sacrifice.

Comrade Adams was instrumental in forming the Orange post of the G. A. R., where he resided for almost 50 years at the close of the Civil War, and served as its commander for two terms. He has been a member of the local post since 1917, when he came to this city to reside.

He was born in Conway, attended the public schools there until 15 years of age, and at the age of 21, enlisted in the Union army. Following the war he worked as a leather carrier and carpenter until 1860 when he studied millwrighting and for a period of 40 years worked at that trade. He traveled during that time for a Worcester machine company, installing and selling water wheels all the way from Sherbrooke, Canada, to H'ish Shouls, Uta, and from Cahals, M., to the Pacific coast. In 1915 he retired and has been "growing old gracefully," as he says, ever since.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams celebrates their 61st wedding anniversary last November. Two daughters, Mrs. Stella S. Tilden and Mrs. M. Luella Band, who also reside at 40 June street, are very active in the affairs of the George H. Ward Woman's Relief corps. Mrs. Band at present serving as its president. —Worcester (Mass.) Telegram, March 6.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams spent seven winters in St. Cloud.

DINNER FOR MOUNT PLYMOUTH FORCE

The Mount Plymouth Corporation on Friday evening, April 2nd, at Dulcend Country Club, Orlando, Florida, held a meeting of Mount Plymouth, Florida dealers and salesmen.

Dinner was served promptly at six o'clock with a get together meeting immediately following. Most of the dealers and salesmen from out of town remained in Orlando over the week end. Representatives of the following towns were present:

Tampa, Mt. Dora, Apopka, Daytona, DeLand, Eustis, New Smyrna, Winter Park, St. Cloud, Kissimmee, Sarasota, Zephyrhills, Delray, Melbourne.

Mr. Carl Dunn and Mr. A. P. Phillips acted as official hosts for this gala occasion.

Mount Plymouth sales have reached a new high water mark for the month of March, and all indications point to phenomenal increase during April. It is planned by the officials of Mount Plymouth Corporation to entertain all Mount Plymouth salesmen and dealers in Florida each month.

No president was born, lived at the time of election or is buried west of the Mississippi. Only one President—Harding—died west of the Mississippi.

POETIC SCRIBE GIVES VIEWS ON WHAT FLORIDA IS

A Florida newspaperman with something of the poet in him wrote the following under the heading "Florida Is":

The hunter's strong box;
The lumberman's abundance;
The manufacturer's horn of plenty;
The farmer's opportunity;
The laborer's chance;
The stockman's perpetual pasture;
The dairyman's flowing bowl;
The apiculturist's land of honey;
The poultryman's egg basket;
The trucker's support;
The fruitman's luscious land;
The yachtsman's race track;
The fisherman's Galilee;
The film maker's dream;
The aviator's paradise;
The citizen's cornucopia;
The goldman's land of pleasure;
The invalid's haven;
The pessimist's Waterloo;
The tourist's refuge; and
The home seeker's goal.

Zero Hours of Automobile Accidents, 4, 5 and 8 P. M.

ONE thousand and thirty of Chicago's 11,795 auto accidents last year, according to the Stewart-Warner Safety Council for the prevention of automobile accidents, occurred between five and six o'clock, just when congestion is at its worst in the home-going rush. Only 47 of these 1,050 accidents were fatal.

Four o'clock is the children's zero hour. Thirty-three of the 182 children killed by autos in Chicago last year came to grief at four o'clock, playing in the streets after school.

Seven to nine is the dangerous time for adult auto fatalities, according to Chicago's 1924 record. Eighty-six of 353 such deaths occurred around the theater-going hours.

SHORTAGE OF SKILLED LABOR LOOMS

Some shortage of workers in the skilled crafts, especially in the brick-laying and plastering trades, is predicted this spring for Miami and its environs, as well as other Florida and northern cities, according to a nationwide survey of the labor situation in the building industry just completed by the building construction research bureau of G. I. Miller and company, nationally known investment bond house specializing in building construction.

Building labor appears well stabilized as well as elsewhere throughout the country, the survey reveals, and it is considered unlikely that any radical revision of existing wage scales will be made in the spring agreements.

The survey said that there is still a slight upward tendency in building trades wage scales, but it is mostly confined to cities where prospective building operations are large and where somewhat less than the maximum wages of the country are being paid. This movement, however, is not expected to effect the general tranquility that now prevails in the construction industry.

Contractors and builders, it was stated, are generally agreed that there is not much chance of any radical reductions in wages unless there is a considerable recession in building activity, and that does not appear likely for some time. On the other hand, they are united in their opposition to further increases and the prospects are that the majority of new agreements now being negotiated will eventually provide for a renewal of the 1925 wage scale for another year.

Demand for the five day week have been made by some few trades in a number of the larger cities. Such demands are being opposed by employers as being unsound and uneconomic. The indications are that this new movement on the part of labor will make little headway during the next twelve months, although it has already established the shorter work week in some trades in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Buffalo, Portland, Newark, Boston, Providence, R. I., and a number of other large cities.

Winter building is breaking all records and more building craftsmen have found steady employment this winter than ever before, and considerable waste in the industry due to seasonal decline has been eliminated. In indications of the rate of winter building are found in the fact that during the last four months more than $700,000,000 worth of building and engineering contracts were awarded.

ST. PETER'S CHURCH IS BUILT BY EARLY SETTLERS IN NARCOOSSEE

Not long ago as years count, but back in the yesterdays of this Florida which the country has come to know in the past five years, of the care-free, adventurous spirits, who came here from the motherland to make their fortunes in the growing of citrus fruits and remained to see their hopes die under the blighting touch of the mid-winter frost, then to return to their beloved England, by sea and steam, until they had for the most part gone—leaving but a scant remnant of their friends to carry on until the boom days of '25.

Narcoossee is as yet an untouched and unspoiled gem in Florida's setting.

Half hidden behind tall, moss-hung vines, just off the common, where once the men of the colony played their cricket games and tossed their quills, is the church—a thing of beauty—seen to be restored to all of its former grace of form and usefulness, for the Hills, the Draytons and the Cadmans have decided that this shall be so.

From its turrets, weatherbeaten through two-score years of tropical exposure, hang listlessly the crosses that mark it as one of the few Churches of England worshipping places in this section. Its many-colored lights have been broken, preventing an appearance of semi-darkness that, but enhances the mystery and the beauty that gives the building its charm.

Within, the walls cover still reserve intact portions of the Episcopal service where the newcomers of the colony were wont to partake of communion, and the beams and walls are as fresh and perfect today as the day they were hand-set within the frame work of the church.

Several years ago, getting back to the story of Narcoossee, a group of English settlers, inspired by tales told by a returned countryman and by advertisements in a London paper, came to Florida and settled in Narcoossee.

At first, being resolute men for the most part, they strove to achieve the goal for which they had set sail from the old country. The languid semitropics gradually beguiled them from work to play, however, and in the latter years of their residence they became known as sport-loving gentlemen who rode their horses at swift pace over the sandy paths, or fished and hunted, as the humor took them.

Many beautiful and profitable orange groves were planted at this time, but the most of the early settlers did not remain to reap the harvest of their one big effort, for when a heavy frost ruined their crops and also hit them hard financially, they, for the most part, sailed for home.

In fact the legend that is told from ear to mouth by old-timers has it that the Queen sent for them in her own battleship and brought them back to their beloved England.

Those who remained have prospered. Today they are the gentry of the countryside—the settler who lives, undisturbed, amid the unbroken silence of a great fastness of beauty and charm.

The church which they built remains their companion of the past. At twilight, when the sun is sinking back of the lake waters, its subdued light filters through the punched-in windows of the little church and bathes the white coverlets in a gold of memory. In the evening the moon slips quietly and unobtrusively between the ghostly fingers of the hanging moss and kisses lightly the miniature spires reaching toward the God of things.

In a brief time this spell will be broken by the sound of tractors as road building pushes on toward the Orange county line and Orlando and opens this little touched spot to the lurch of the homemaker who wants to get "on the highway."

For know you that Narcoossee, for all her venerable past, is growing rapidly into the big little sister of the other towns in Osceola county. She will grow and continue to grow, for she is what is now most desired of all things—real back country with a future. But she will always, so long as St. Peter's remains in its perfect setting, have her past.

In the story of St. Peter's is wrapped the story of Narcoossee. In the past is laid the foundation upon which the town's future is to be built.

A future, say those who are close observers of the growth in this area, that will carry her far among her sister cities in a wonderful state.

In closing may it be said that it is not in her rich agricultural land that Narcoossee rests most secure, nor in her location, on the proposed coast to coast highway. It is in the knowledge of the sturdy gentleman farmers who first came here, were absorbed by the beauty of it all and left as their heritage St. Peter's church, a perfect piece of architecture in the midst of a scene of virgin beauty unexcelled.

HOME SWEET HOME

"Home Sweet Home", as a melody, is still known to every man and woman in the country, but it represents today more a lovely music set around some empty words.

Even the song our mothers and fathers almost looked on as a hymn is "jaded" to make rhythm for frivolous feet, is decorated at thousands of dances that make "Home Sweet Home" a mockery.

There is distressingly little respect for the father or the mother where there is distressingly little realization on their part of the sweet responsibilities of parenthood.

It is a condition that is dangerous, a condition that must be remedied, even though it should mean a total revolution of our existing religious and school teaching.

The home must be saved, but the country must first be aroused to an appreciation of the fact that home life is not only seriously menaced and in a very unhealthy state, but is actually, in an almost moribund condition, not of itself, but through the inroads of all these ultra-modern encroachments that have had such destructive influences.

The number of forts established in Florida during the Indian wars yielded their names to settlements that grew up around them, hence Florida has Fort Lauderdale, Fort Pierce, Fort Myers, Fort Passenger, and others. These old forts disappeared years ago, few, if any of them having been built for permanency, but it is unfortunate from a historic viewpoint that the exact spots upon which they stood were not marked by enduring monuments. One of the most important forts of those early days was Fort Brooke, on Tampa Bay. Not a vestige of that fort remains, but its site is said to have been about the spot now covered by the Mallory docks. Florida has done little to mark its historic spots, but there is a tendency to rectify this neglect. The Colonial Dames during recent years caused three bronze tablets to be placed above the entrance (inside) to the old fort at St. Augustine, and the same society, assisted by the Daughters of the Revolution, recently erected a tablet to the memory of Jean Ribault, near Jacksonville, supposedly to mark the spot where the French first landed. The sculptor who executed the design had a difficult task in reproducing some of the detail which it was desired to show because he could find no print upon which to model his work.

Kissimmee Business Men Are Strong For Good Road Bonds In Osceola County

"Put the road bond issue over—regardless."

That was the sentiment expressed at a meeting of representative business men of Kissimmee who met in the office of the Kissimmee Realty company Tuesday morning to deliberate ways and means to secure Osceola county of a big affirmative vote on the bond issue April 12, says the Valley Gazette.

It is not a question individual or community any longer—it is a question of Osceola county—whether this county will keep in line with the rest of the state or not, was the way that one of the leaders expressed himself and this stand was thoroughly endorsed by those present.

As a net result of an hour's discussion it was announced that Ben Miller, known throughout the county as a progressive citizen, was named chairman of a committee of seven to be a steering committee.

It will be the purpose of this committee to see that every voter in the county is informed of the facts about the bond issue and urged to line up on the "Yes" side of the question which means more to Kissimmee and Osceola county than any question that has ever been submitted to the electorate.

It would be impossible for any man to participate in the session held today and not feel that with the intelligent and earnest leadership evidenced there, the success of the bond issue is assured by an overwhelming majority.

"It is not a question of passing the bond issue," was the way one man put it, "but a question of passing it by a majority that will be indicative of the progressive spirit throughout the county."

Committee Indorse It

Secretary Wheeler, of the Chamber of Commerce produced a letter which is signed by the members of the citizens committee which has been working with their county commissioners on the bond issue plans and this letter is an unqualified indorsement of the road issue and urges every voter to get behind it.

Committees will be named today who will make a thorough canvass of the city and surrounding territory and will make plans to have two infinite speakers at every performance of the chautauqua and at the picture shows in Kissimmee.

It was announced that the Chamber of Commerce already has in its possession 500 pledges from men and women in the county who will not only vote for the bond issue but will support it by doing re-election work.

The steering committee consists of: Ben Miller, chairman; J. S. Cadel, Pat Johnson, Ernest Oliver, Bill Barber, Walter Bass and Marion Carson.

The letter of the citizens committee, addressed to the voters of the county follows:

To the Voters of Osceola County, Florida,

Dear Sir or Madam:

We, the undersigned committee, having been appointed by the various civic organizations of the county to advise and collaborate with the County Commissioners in working out plans for a $2,000,000 Road Bonds Issue, beg to report as follows:

We indorse and recommend the plan of building approximately eighty miles of additional hard surfaced roads and a Bond Issue of $2,000,000, as set forth by the County Commissioners in their call for an election to be held April 12th.

We believe that the expenditure of this money will be judiciously handled by the Bond Trustees, composed of H. L. Steen, President Peoples Bank of St. Cloud; L. E. Penn, Vice-President Bank of Osceola County; J. K. Conn, President Bank of St. Cloud. These men have agreed to serve without compensation.

The roads to be constructed are as equitably distributed throughout the county as it is possible to make them under the existing circumstances, and will serve advantageously a vast majority of the people.

We therefore, respectfully and earnestly urge that each and every qualified voter in Osceola County go to the polls on Monday, April 12, and cast their ballots for this progressive program of development.

Respectfully submitted,
R. W. Porter, St. Cloud, Chairman,
D. L. Aubrey, Kissimmee, Vice-Chairman,
Victor M. Hill, Narcoossee,
T. G. Moore, St. Cloud,
J. Wade Tucker, Kissimmee, Secretary.
Osceola County Advisory Committee.

Mr. Leary Haden, uncle of Mrs. Antoinette Bode, who has enjoyed the winter here, left for Brownstown, Ill., Wednesday.

Mr. Fred Scott left for his home in Vandalia, Ill., on Wednesday.

FLASHES OF BOND ISSUE

Handolph Young, of Kenansville, who was in the city Tuesday, says that it is his opinion that the bonds for roads will receive almost unanimous support at Kenansville and Lakeview precincts.

T. G. Moore, one of the members of the road committee from St. Cloud, who have worked so hard to get a system of good roads throughout the county, is of course 100 per cent for the $2,000,000 bond issue. Mr. Moore feels that the bonds will carry, but wants every voter to show his appreciation of the committee's work by making the majority the biggest ever given.

R. W. Porter, member of the Chamber of Commerce road committee, says: "More roads, more farms; more farms, more business; more business, more automobiles, more automobiles, more happy people—in fact good roads make a community or county prosperous and contented."

E. L. Overstreet, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, thinks the present road plan will meet the needs of various sections of the county at this time, and if voted Tuesday will eliminate the monthly wrangling over roads that has occupied so much time at each commissioners meeting for several months, in fact years, back.

The people were always asking for more roads than the commissioners could provide with the money raised for the road fund, and in spite of the Commissioners using every effort to keep up with roads demanded, or petitioned for, none of these petitions for additional roads ever provided funds, until this county wide bond issue was proposed. If the bonds carry, the roads that are specified will be constructed promptly, and the whole county will benefit greatly.

A. P. Bass, commissioner from the St. Cloud district, which embraces also Narcoossee, Deer Park and Hesperia, has always fought for good roads in his district, but at the same time has always helped secure new roads for the whole county. Of course he is pleased that the bond issue has finally been worked out to meet the needs of the whole county and thinks it will carry by a big majority.

Commissioner E. T. Minor has been trying to get a hard surfaced road to connect the southern part of the county with the central and northern section ever since he was elected to the Board, and his district will go strongly in favor of bonds. He wants the whole county to have good roads as is proposed by this bond issue submitted.

Commissioner Henry Partin says: "Give taxpayers what they want. Roads will do the county good, and now there is an opportunity to provide funds, we will see if those folks who are always asking for roads really want them."

W. G. King, who bears the distinction of being the first white resident of St. Cloud to locate here permanently, and who has served in many public positions, says: "I favor a good road program covering the whole county; the whole county benefits, therefore it is right that bonds for the whole county be voted for the roads needed for the various sections of the county."

G. C. Hunter, builder of the Hunter Arms hotel on New York avenue and developer of Ocala Gardens, in Narcoossee, St. Cloud, is heartily in favor of the county-wide bond issue for good roads.

ANOTHER ALADDIN HOUSE ARRIVES FRENCH DESIGN

Another of the ready to build houses of the Aladdin make, was received during the past week, by W. F. French. It is of French design of stucco. No sooner had it arrived than Francis Sawyer with a force of men went to work and by the time we go to press this beautiful house will be well under way.

It is being built on the Illinois avenue near 8th street next door to Mr. French's mother, Mrs. Julia B. French.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Draper, who have spent the winter here with Mrs. Woodhurst, returned to their home in Bodue Point, N. Y., Tuesday.

Leave your children something to remember you by—build good roads now and posterity will enjoy them.

ANNIVERSARY OF THE ORGANIZATION OF THE G. A. R.

At the celebration of the anniversary, arranged by the Ladies of the W. R. C., the writer stated his opinion, privately to different persons that the organization; that it did not take place until 1868, but, upon consulting an Encyclopedia he learned of his mistake. He had mistaken the founding of Memorial Day, by Gen. Logan, for the founding of the G. A. R. two years earlier. The G. A. R. was organized at Decatur, Ill., by Dr. B. F. Stephenson, of Springfield, April 6, 1868, and grew so rapidly that in the following November, the first National Convention at Indianapolis was attended by delegates from ten states, and the District of Columbia. At this convention General Stephen A. Hurlbut, of Illinois, was elected Commander-in-Chief. The Order grew so rapidly, that on June 30th, 1890, there were 6045 G. A. R. Post, 45 Departments, and 270002 members. This was probably near the high tide of the organization.

At the National Convention held in Boston in 1924. It was estimated that 10,000 veterans were in attendance, and the average age was 82 years.

COMRADE GEORGE H. HASTINGS

Was born at Paw Paw, Groer, Illinois, March 2, 1845. Departed this life at his home in St. Cloud, Florida, March 30, 1926 at the age of 81 years and 28 days. When quite a young man, he went to Mitchell County, Iowa, where he was engaged in mercantile business with his only brother, Sidney Hastings. On December 26, 1863, he enlisted in the Fourth Iowa Cavalry and was mustered out with the company at the close of the war.

After the war he returned to Iowa for a short time soon returning to his native state Illinois. Learning the blacksmith trade he followed this trade for several years. In early spring of 1870 he moved to Mason County, Missouri, near LaPlata, where he was engaged in successful farming and live stock raising until retiring a few years before moving to Florida.

November 19, 1871, he was united in marriage to Phoebe Jane Buck. To this Union was borne one son, George Sidney, who died at the tender age of six. In 1913 Mr. and Mrs. Hastings moved to St. Cloud, Fla. to avoid the snow and cold northern winds and he able to enjoy their remaining years in warmth, sunshine and flowers. Mr. Hastings two nephews, Willard and Charles Hall were called to his bedside and accompanied the remains to his final resting place beside the little one gone before in the LaPlata cemetery.

He was an honorary member of La Plata Lodge No. 231 A. F. and A. M., also member of the Eastern Star Lodge and G. A. R. Masonic services are to be held in LaPlata.

Mr. Hastings in early life joined the Universalist church and has always been a firm believer in that faith. He at one time had built and gave to the community of which he lived a church and devoted actively to other churches in nearby towns. He leaves his wife, two nephews and their families, also Mrs. Sam McKeith whom they raised from childhood with a host of friends to mourn his departure.

It is the opinion of scientists that one reason why people become "old" is that they have made up their minds for years that 70 or 80 years is this life limit for the near majority, and that one could live to a 100 or more if we only made up our minds to attain a century.

The weather bureau has coined the word "smog" to signify a mixture of smoke and fog. The Washington Post suggests "smog" as a derivative of snow and sleet so common in the North. The Christian Science Monitor thinks that "brillium" will be used for a bright and sunny day.

The Atlantic Coast Line road has absorbed the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic road, with 640 miles of track up in Georgia and Alabama. The A. C. L. also controls the Louisville and Nashville road.

Seven states only exceeded Florida in 1925 in automobile registrations. The increase of approximately 10,000 registrations in Florida was the equivalent of transferring all the cars in Nevada, Wyoming and Delaware to our state.

There was a time within the memory of the living that the tomato was considered poisonous but now more are canned than of any other truck crop. Florida ships more cans of tomatoes than any other state, as high as 10,000 in the early spring.

Even "old Beck" sees more service if the roads are good.

"It Takes a Lot of Living To Make a House a Home"

By R. Hodges Marlow

Some one, I think it was Edgar Guest, once wrote something about "It takes a heap of living to make a house a home."

When he penned that cryptic line he did not know this man, Leon D. Lamb, who talked with me today and he did not know that in St. Cloud Florida, there was to be chosen as the field for one of the biggest experiments in the state.

Out on Florida avenue at the present time there are ten completed homes. They have been built on lots owned by the construction company, and they are complete in every detail.

In the near future there will be ten families living in these homes, and they have been so designed and arranged that it isn't going to take a heap of living to make them homes.

Leon D. Lamb sitting in his office down here in St. Cloud some months ago began to look around with a view to finding the solution of a matter that had been preying on his mind. He was in the real estate business—yet it was not satisfying. This matter of selling a man a few feet of land, and then leaving the rest up to him, did not require any great matter of great selling ability and it was not the creative work that he was anxious to see accomplished.

It was in this frame of mind and under these circumstances that he thought of the idea of buying the lot, building the home, and when everything was completed, then look about for just the man who wanted that sort of a home.

Thus the Saint Cloud Construction Company was formed, and the first work began. A program of 100 homes for St. Cloud in 1926 was mapped out. The first section was Florida avenue.

Here there have been ten homes erected and there will be others for this firm has 18 lots on this avenue, close to the business section yet far enough removed to give that privacy which is essential to those who want to have quiet and rest of an evening in their home.

When the plan to build these homes was first outlined the question arose as to the design.

"Let's get away from this hackneyed, one design proposition," was the way Mr. Lamb put the case to his associates, V. Clyde Edwards and W. A. Arrowsmith, "let's give them something new in every home we build."

This was the beginning of what has become known throughout Florida as the "Spanish" type of home.

It has all the charm of the Spanish design without the flat appearance. There is the same stucco veneer, the low walls but topping them is a sloping roof and in each home plan there is some factor inserted so that every home is of original design. In fact there is one man who does nothing else but lay out these homes.

The home when completed is a fire room affair with bath and all modern conveniences. It is of peculiarly attractive design and an invitation to the man who is looking for a real home.

Fast as I stumbled onto their slogan right there for they advertise these places as "Real homes for real people." With the first unit of ten homes completed the experiment is well on its way and as fast as these are turned over to new owners, new homes will be built until the years program of 100 homes has been accomplished.

This is creative. It is doing something that means real progress in a community. It does not take a great deal of vision to appreciate just what this sort of a program means to a growing town over a period of years.

But—the answer is easily read in a few moments conversation with the man who conceived it.

He takes all this thing as a sort of matter of course proposition, but you sense the power in the man and somehow know that whatever he sets out to do—will be found accomplished and on time.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

The regular monthly meeting of the county commissioners was held Monday, with E. L. D. Overstreet, chairman; J. L. Overstreet, clerk; H. O. Curtis, A. F. Bass, E. T. Minor, H. P. Sidel, present.

Secretary Wheeler, of the Kissimmee, Chamber of Commerce of Kissimmee, came before the board with request for the appropriation made to that organization by the board as did Secretary Rolfe, of the St. Cloud Chamber of Commerce, both received the amounts due them.

Attorney John Cadel presented for the consideration of the board purchase of W. Y. Seal farm on the Peg Horn road with a large house and barn and out buildings, to be used as a county farm.

The contract was let to Jones, Butler and Johnston as engineers on the proposed highways if the election is favorable. Mr. J. W. Jones, senior member of this firm recently located in Kissimmee, coming from Sawanee county, where he was county engineer. In Lake, Leon and LaFayette counties he held like position and was locating engineer in Orangeburgs, S. C., and Sumpter County, S. C., where he was constructing and locating engineer for the railroad. He is at present chief engineer for the Florida Tropics Development Co. The other members of the firm need no introductions as they are men who have grown from boyhood here in the county and have demonstrated their ability as engineers.

Commissioner Minor reported that Bryan Yates had injured his foot with a grubbing hoe and he was allowed $20 per month till able to work.

The board and committee on road held an executive session.

There will be a called meeting of the board to canvas the vote of the bond election on Wednesday, April 14th, and take care of any other matters.

Appoint Engineers

Monday at the meeting of the county commissioners with the county advisory committee, Joe J. Johnston, Joe Butler, and Joe Jones, were appointed engineers for the road schedule, subject to the election result. The president of the two St. Cloud banks, and the vice-president of the Bank of Osceola county of Kissimmee, were named bond trustees.

THE NEW ENGLAND SOCIETY

The New England Society will meet in the upper G. A. R. hall Monday, April 12th at 2:30. This will be the last meeting of the season.

A native Christian in Japan has copied the whole Bible on a piece of paper 6 feet long. Every word was written by hand and the task took seven years.

A fine automobile without good roads is like a boat without water.

CHILD RAN DOWN BY MOTORCYCLE

At noon Tuesday as Jack Hewitt was sitting eating dinner at his home opposite the Presbyterian parsonage, he saw a car stop and three children get out and run back of the car and across the street. They did not see a motorcycle, driven by Ed Padgett, which was almost on them; he saw them however, in time to turn into the curb striking the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Burns, who are in charge of the tourist camp ground.

Mr. Hewitt ran to the child and picked him up and hurried to the office of Dr. J. D. Chunn where his wounds were dressed. He was badly cut about the head and one leg. After the child was made comfortable, attention was next turned to Ed, where he was found at the parsonage still unconscious and remained so for some time. Dr. Chunn dressed his wounds and when he became conscious was taken to his home. It was one of the unavoidable accidents, and it is sincerely hoped that no ill effects will result.

REALTORS BOARD

The Realtors Board held their regular weekly meeting with lunch at the Dwyer's cafe. President B. L. Steen presiding matters of importance to the real estate business, were discussed at length.

A communication from Mr. Peter G. Knight, stating the place of meeting of the realtors convention had been changed to the New Palm Beach Hotel April 10th.

This was the day quarterly dues were paid, and it was not thought advisable to turn it over to the treasurer, Howard Dawley for fear he would get it mixed up with his pressing club money.

It was voted to send an expression of sympathy to Mr. G. C. Hunter on account of the death of his mother.

GOOD CROWD GREET GLEE CLUB AT HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM

The Windmills of Holland the Operetta in two acts given by the Glee club of the St. High School in the auditorium of Friday, April 2nd under direction of Miss Gula Lee, the music teacher in the school, was received with delight and highest praise by all, who were fortunate to attend.

The one regret was that such display of talent and such supreme effort on part of the director and glee club in preparing such a splendid program could not have been witnessed by every one in the city.

The costumes were of the Holland dutch design and with the wooden shoes helped much in making this so attractive.

He's four neighbor fifty or a hundred miles away if the roads are good.

TOURIST CLUB FAREWELL MEET

Monday, April 5th was the last meeting of the Tourist Association of this season. This was a picnic day and there was fun enough for twice the number gathered there.

President Hall explained that since much damage had been done the chairs had been placed in the hands of the president of the club by the Chamber of Commerce and the city management, and any one wishing use of our home or chairs will make arrangements with the president. All chairs belonging to the club house which have been borrowed, should be returned, as there is a shortage of chairs and seats.

The pleased and delighted tourist that have and are returning to the north is the most wonderful piece of advertising.

At this our last meeting of the Tourist club it is fitting that we should express our appreciation to those who made many efforts to make us, tourists feel at home in St. Cloud. First and foremost our much beloved Dr. Hall, whose kindness and courtesy is never failing. His efforts in behalf of the tourist are constant. A tourist meeting without Dr. Hall in the chair could never be the same.

Without the help and co-operation of the city management and the chamber of commerce, Dr. Hall could not be able to carry out his plans for our comfort. So we wish to express to the city management, to the chamber of commerce and the Tribune company, our appreciation of their efforts (in our behalf) with Dr. Hall.

New games have been placed in the city park, heat and light have been provided, for our evening meetings, the concert of the band, the Christmas celebration, all for our pleasure and comfort, is due thanks to the chamber of commerce and the city management, and in anticipation of the hosting of the club house by the St. Cloud residents board for next season.

There are many plans for organized activities of all kind which will mean cheer and joy for returning tourist.

It is fitting to mention that Mrs. Rosenthal supplied four card tables for use during the evenings. Some of the things that have been suggested, is a victrola, some comfortable chairs and a reading lamp, with some good magazines would also help to make the evenings pleasant for many of our guests. May we all return in good health and good spirits anticipating a happy winter in St. Cloud, the city of friendliness and good will.

J. E. CONN DEVELOPS LAKE FRONT PROPERTY

J. E. Conn, president of Bank of St. Cloud, has begun improving his beautiful property on the lake front by building double garages with apartments over. This building is of stucco tile type, and faces Cypress avenue. It is Mr. Conn's plan to build his home on the lake front boulevard.

FLORIDA

One who has been to Florida recently, since the boom reached big proportions, can refresh the accompanying estimate of that state by a writer in the Sparta, Mich., Sentinel:

Florida is the chin whiskers of the United States. It is six hundred miles long, two hundred miles wide and three feet high. It is bounded on the north by the eighteenth amendment and on the other three sides by the three-mile limit.

Florida is inhabited by Indians, American, white men and feed-bag tourists, sometimes called tin-canners. The red live on the Everglades, the blacks live on the whites, and the whites live on the municipal excrement grounds.

Florida's principal sources of income are hotels, fruits, alligator skins, tourists and the test-pocket press agents of California. But the one big outstanding feature of Florida is its fruit. Orange raising comes first of course. Raising oranges in Florida is a cinch; all that is required is enough money to live on while raising them.

The next Florida fruit is the grape fruit. A grapefruit is a cross between a lemon, a dose of quinine and a pumpkin. It has the color and disposition of a blonde ticket seller at a moving picture show. It is usually eaten at breakfast, thus combining the advantages of a meal and a morning shower bath at the same time.

The tangerine is a distant cousin of the orange. It wears a loose and careless Mother Hubbard style of wrapper and is much easier to disrobe than the orange, but it has a more dry, withered and disappointed disposition when undressed.

The kumquat is the only thing in Florida that lives up to its name. It looks and acts just the way it sounds.

Trucks For Florida

Rawlins—A fleet of six heavy trucks and two touring cars left Rawlins for Florida, Saturday morning where the trucks at least will be used in the boom operations which are now at their height in the Everglades State. Two of the trucks are the property of L. R. Baker of that city and four belong to Pitt & Anthrum and are the same as were taken to Craig early in the winter.

An advertisement from Florida recently appeared in one of the Denver newspapers, under "help wanted" for "Wyoming truck drivers, some others need apply."

Don't Worry

If you don't worry, you're exceptional.

If you worry, as most folks do, and you're not trying to kill this pernicious habit, you're mighty foolish. For, bye and bye, the thing you ought to kill will get a death grip on you. And then, enter the doctor, preacher and undertaker.

We might all be infinitely more happy, health and prosperous if we would only take hold of ourselves and stop the silly, insane, useless, strength-robbing habit of harassing ourselves with worry.

The weather won't change and the landlord will remember you anyhow despite all your worrying. The doctor's bills will be higher and the imaginary troubles will be changed into real ones in proportion as you persist in worrying.

Get rid of it, stupid. Kill it, business man. Junk it, moolah. Crush it, everybody!

It's all in your head, anyway, and if you don't clean up inside you'll literally think yourself into a hole in the ground before your time comes.

Reward of Goodness

Dr. Cadman Presented With $25,000 on 25th Anniversary.

A gold caption in a recent issue of a newspaper, yet what a warm thrilling heart-story back of it.

Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman is pastor of the Central Congregational Church in Brooklyn. His fame is worldwide. His wisdom has spread to the four corners of the earth. And no doubt he has made and saved more money than the average minister of the gospel.

But on the anniversary of his 25th in the ministry and his 25th year as pastor of the Brooklyn church, his parishioners tendered him a great ovation and a purse of $25,000 "on behalf of the church and every family in the church."

One thousand dollars for every year
he has counseled and guided the men, women, boys and girls of his congregation.

Whether Dr. Cadman needs the money is of no consequence.

His people, his families, gave him the purse and a "great ovation," out of their hearts, not their pocketbooks.
They adopted his practical method to express their thanks to the man who has devoted the prime years of his life to teaching them something aside from the blunt and brutish battles of every day. He has taught his folks the principle of "good will." They have only repaid him.

SUCCESS

Bessie A. Stanley, the Kansas girl, who won a $200 prize given by a great publication for the best definition of success, wrote the following:

"He has achieved success, who has lived well, laughed often, loved much, who has gained the respect of intelligent men and the love of little children; who has filled his niche, and accomplished his task; who has left the world better than he found it, whether by an improved penny, perfect room, or a rescued soul; who has not lacked appreciation of earth's beauty or failed to express it; who has always looked for the best he had in himself; whose life has been an inspiration and whose memory is a benediction."

The fishing industry is worth $15-$20,000,000 to Florida annually. Salt water scale fish shipments for the year 1921-22 were 116,915,000 pounds.
One hundred and ninety thousand barrels of oysters and clams and 19-552,900 pounds of shrimp were shipped or canned.

Building permits in seventeen Florida cities during the first six months of 1925 amounted to $72,341,500, as contrasted with $31,061,505 for the first six months of 1924.

Bank deposits June 30, 1925, were $402,238,854.09, as against $208,093, 305.90 in June, 1924. This represents a gain of more than 100 per cent in one year.

THE GRAND CANYON. GAS BOMBS AT HOME. 3000 BULLSEYES. MUSHING FOR GOLD.

This is written with scenery. On the left the sun is sinking, an Arizona sunset. Come out here, if you want to know how it looks. On the left the moon is up, gaining color, as the sun goes down. And from this spot you could walk a few feet, then jump down one mile.
This is the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, with its thousands of towers, mountains, forts, peaks of every shape and color rising up from the canyon's floor one mile down.

The western horizon is a rim of gold, the farewell effort and defiance of the sun, rolling down to China. And the canyon below is changing its colors and shadows, obedient to fading sunlight and growing moonlight. It would be worth your while to see that. Shadows and bands of color a mile high, exposed layers of old earth that took millions of centuries to build laid bare by the rushing waters, each with its color and character,
each an open book to the geologist, showing exact age as plainly as you read it in a painted face.

A genuine artist, with soul, temperament and similar things, would be sick and probably faint if he could look up from these typewriter letters, carefully padded with rubber, toward the east and west.
Below the pale moon, almost full, the sky is a dark rose purple. Below the purple there is a dark band of heavy blue. The moon, queen of heaven, rides in triumph on a colored throne as wide as the sky.

Somewhere around warm owners of mills in Passaic that they are running risks. This nation was interested when gas bombs first appeared in the big war. It will not be pleased to hear of employers fighting a strike, legal in character, using gas bombs against their workers, and turning heavy streams of cold water on women and children, when tear gas failed to do the work.

Now the workers have bought two thousand gas masks to be ready for the next attack, which is not pleasant reading in this prosperous republic. We are doing pretty well here; industrialists are not exactly starving to death.
They should warn those Passaic idiot against upsetting the apple cart. Employers have considerably more to lose than employees in the game of violence.

A solemn Washington dispatch says the President and Cabinet discussed the Wall Street scare, and "President Coolidge let it be known that he felt there was nothing taking place in the business world symptomatic of a setup in the present prosperity."

The trouble, just "nervous prosperity" among those of the gamblers, afraid of their own profits.
The revised income tax rate will bring hundreds of millions out of the income tax proof non-taxable securities, and business will boom more than ever.

You read of young Americans going to the dogs via the Charleston, jazz and bootleg whiskey.
Then Samuel Moore, seventeen-year-old captain of the high school rifle team at Newton, Mass., reassures you with his new world's record.

That young gentleman, it sounds unbelievable, made three thousand consecutive bullseyes between eight o'clock in the morning and five in the evening. Neither Charleston nor premature hootch has ruined that young man's nerves.

The world has been much explored since and before the days of Marco Polo, and the exploring goes on. Ten expeditions are about to start for the polar regions, some to seek new lands, and, perhaps, oil, gold, etc. Others go in the interest of science.

In Canada frozen roads are packed with gold seekers, defying the temperature fifty degrees below zero, in a new gold rush; gold seekers, mushing in dog sleds, racing to the new strike where "gold is showing over a stretch of country five miles in length, with good ground still untraced." It won't remain untraced long. Say "gold" and people move as when you cry
"Go."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Fosteria, Ohio, April 7, 1926.
Mrs. Foster:

I should have reported sooner, but have been so cold.

I am now thinking of the old song,
"Carry me back to old (not old Va.)
but back to St. Cloud in good old Sunland."

To think what a pleasant place I was at just a few days ago, and now cooped up in the house and setting very very close to the hard coal lumber. Yesterday the last day of March was a very nasty day blew a 70 miles gale all day and all night snow drifting, and thermometer registers 20 with a piercing wind almost unbearable. Especially myself. This being April fool day, it is sure fooling everybody in northern Ohio give me good old St.
Cloud the wonder city in Sunland
I received my St. Cloud Tribune O. K. and read all about the history of St.
Cloud. I can't wait here, but I hope you are all awaiting froly.

A. J. YOUNG.

To the Editor Tribune.

The robins are flying north. I never saw so many robins in Florida.
The tourists are flying north. I never saw so many tourists in Florida. The birds came here because of cold in the north. The tourists came for the same reason. This season in old St.
Cloud has been a series of sensational events exceeding all preceding seasons. What with two carnivals, a chateau, a week of festival, balloon ascension, basket ball, tennis, racquet, concert, shuffle, domino, chess, checkers,
"500", euchre, pool, "7 up" picture-shows, parades, prize-fights, not to speak of five band concerts weekly with vocal solos and an attempted recall of Mayer by election, times have been anything but dull down here the past season. Cold? No. Chilly? Yes a bit, at times as low as 57 degrees and as high the past week as 88 degrees. But with all muck to our likeluz.

A big event in old St. Cloud was the advent of champion horse-shoe player of the U. S. A., Mr. Mossman, of Illinois. He lost the championship this winter by two points, 49-51. He lost by driving one of Jackson's shoes on for a ringer. A modest good looking lad of 20, he made a great bit with the big crowd here last week Friday.
He was offered $200.00 a week to travel but objected to the seven days a week required. Is giving private exhibitions. Has had 15 counties with present champion Jackson and won 15 of them. The following stunts were pulled off here to an enthusiastic audience. He pitched and won a 50 point game against two of St. Cloud's cruck pitchers, "Smiling Jack" of W. Va. and Edwards, of Columbus, Ohio, 51-48. Threw four consecutive ringers on

I was about to say good roads are the most important consideration when one contemplates buying in a new townsite development like Mount Plymouth, but I won't. I think the roads are secondary,
but very essential.

The first consideration, always, should be the personnel,—the men who project the development.
Unless they are the right sort of men and have plenty of money to put through what they promise to do, you can very safely, and wisely, lay off.

No matter how well the property is located, how well advertised or how much is promised, unless the company is properly officered and soundly financed, it's a good thing to let alone.

Mount Plymouth was placed where it is, partly because of the magnificent roadways that lead to
it. The first step in the development of Mount Plymouth itself was to be-ribbon the property with streets, 50 to 80 feet wide.
You ought to see it!

Take my tip, and buy in this

Go out to Mount Plymouth and stand on the highest hill in the place, right where the club house is now being erected, and get an eyeful of the scenery that lies before you; the 18-hole golf course, the lake which covers 200 acres, the club house which will cost near a quarter of a million, orange trees, beautiful shrubbery. Then taste the water, and sniff the ozone!

And then,—investigate the men who are back of the proposition. If you find them to be the right sort of men, take my tip, and buy in this.

Builds up weak bodies

"Eighteen months I suffered from stomach trouble, dizziness, nervousness and intense pain. Tanlac stopped all that. I am 35, Appetite is good, I sleep well and feel like 50. I gladly recommend Tanlac." Elias Johnson, 895 Cass St., St. Paul, Minn.

From Mother Nature's storehouse we have gathered the roots, herbs and barks which are compounded, under the famous Tanlac formula, to make Tanlac.

If your body is weak and undernourished, if you can't sleep or eat, have stomach trouble or burning rheumatism, just you see how quickly Tanlac can help you back to health and strength.

Don't delay taking Tanlac another day. Stop at your druggist's now and get a bottle of this, the greatest of all tonics. Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills for constipation.

Early History of St. Cloud

By W. G. KING

Our guests at Rimmymede enjoyed themselves during their stay and the company did everything in their power to show them the advantages of St. Cloud and the surrounding country and many who were in the party made investments and also plans for the improvement of their new property. Captain Moses Folsom (now of the State Marketing Bureau) had charge of the excursion on the way down and was also "major domo" of the hotel. During the three months lease of the hotel the permanent manager Mrs. Reed and Mrs. Mosher her assistant were very successful in keeping the hotel filled with guests; however, on the first of August 1906, a contract was given to N. F. Bass, of Kinsman, to build a frame building, on the site of the present St. Cloud hotel to contain thirty-four rooms. Into this we moved our guests from Rimmymede on the 15th day of September, the building having been completed inside of seven weeks.

St. Cloud at that time was getting to be fairly well known and houses and just cottages began to dot the landscape. The first building was erected by George Pen and his good wife, who came here in the very early days, bought some lumber and piled it up to something in the shape of a shed under which they lived during the summer and through the rainy season. Their home was built on Massachusetts avenue and is now owned by Mrs. Retta Williams who came here from Valparaiso, Indiana. Albert Hantsch (since deceased) was the first veteran to arrive in the town. He arrived on May 9th, 1909, and the first work done by the writer who arrived on the same train, was to assist the veteran in driving his tent pegs for outside of the office of the Seminoles Land and Investment Company, there were no housing accommodations this side of Kinsman. Mr. Hantsch built a small cottage on, I think Maryland avenue and 12th street, and during his life was noted for his beautiful flower garden. Though in very feeble health when he arrived here he lived several years to enjoy the wonderful climate at St. Cloud, and his funeral was up to that time the largest ever held in St. Cloud. The sermon preached by Rev. Frank R. Kenney referred very touchingly to the great love the deceased had for flowers.

Other early houses were built on Florida avenue. The present C. F. Johnson's residence was built by Wm. Cox, formerly in the Navy, who erected the first large flag pole that had been put up in St. Cloud at the intersection of Florida avenue and 8th street. The Marsh building on the corner of Florida and 8th street was built by George Marsh who brought with him from home a stock of shoes and dry goods and was given a special permit to open a store on the north side of the track for the special purpose of disposing of his goods. Flemminghurst was also built during the latter part of 1909 or early in 1910 and is still the property of Miss Margaret Fleming who came to St. Cloud from Toledo, Ohio. H. D. Colvin also reached St. Cloud about the same time; he brought with him some blooded stock, if I remember rightly two cows and a heifer, but it seemed impossible to get the animals acclimated, and they all died within a short time. Mr. Wetherby also came about this time and brought with him the first automobile privately owned in St. Cloud a Cadillac of an odd vintage which when it would go announced its arrival from a long distance. Mr. Wetherby also brought some sheep which were pastured in the little grove on the lake front, but all proved food for the buzzards very shortly after their arrival.

I want here to mention a few of the ladies who as usual assisted greatly in the first success of the colony. First Mrs. Sarah B. Norris, who came here with extremely little except a very modest portion of eight dollars per month, and a deed for a lot and a five acre tract. Mrs. Norris catered to the tastes of our settlers for good things and appreciated the fact that the best way to a man's heart is through his stomach. When she arrived here she brought a tent and an old second hand stove and commenced manufacturing dough-nuts, cookies and pies and many of the old timers today still remember with what relish her delicacies were snatched up. Mrs. Norris subsequently started a hen ranch close to town and supplied eggs and chickens until the work became too much for her. Since that time or rather since the first formation of a city library, she has been indefatigable in her work given faithfully and gratuitously towards the success of that work. Another of our pioneers was Mrs. Dorothea Jaquest, Mrs. Jaquest came here early in August 1909, and her residence, while she was building Sunnyside Villa (now the property of Will Foster) was at the old post office building on the canal. Mrs. Jaquest decided that bread, good bread, was needed to supply the ever increasing demand and laid in a stock of flour and on a common kitchen stove would by working day and night turn out from fifty to seventy five loaves a day and even at that she could not keep up with the demand. Eventually she built a brick oven but owing to poor construction the top fell in one day, and William Johnson having come to town and established an opposition bakery Mrs. Jaquest retired from the field and commenced to take roomers and boarders. Her home soon became a favorite boarding house and amongst her early boarders she numbered S. W. Porter, Clyde and New Edwards, Wm. Starr Anderson, Vic Edwards, Wm. Kaubach and several of the officers of the company on their visits from Washington can testify to quality of her meals. Wm. Johnson also started his bakery in a tent and eventually built the store now owned by A. B. McKay on Eleventh street.

A PLEASANT SOCIAL

The first of a series of monthly social meetings of the Whosoever Will class of the Baptist church was held last Thursday evening at the church. It was the first occasion on which the class has met in the recently enlarged building, and with about 100 members present, proved to be a very pleasant gathering.

The class president, Wallace M. Perry conducted the program and led the opening singing. The pastor, Rev. R. Atchison offered prayer, and Mrs. Atchison presided at the organ. Vocal solos were contributed by Mrs. Sadie Bowman, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., and Mrs. Catherine, wife of Rev. F. J. Carter, who have been enjoying the winter in St. Cloud. Mrs. Charles Perry contributed a reading. All of these artists gave so much pleasure to audience that encores were required.

The special feature of the evening however, was an address by Rev. J. A. Callan, pastor of the Presbyterian church, on the subject of his recent visit to the Holy Land. Rev. Mr. Callan spoke in an informal manner, exhibiting a number of interesting souvenirs of his trip and answering many questions which he invited from his audience. He spoke particularly of "going down to Jericho," and the Dead Sea, and of the unsatisfactory character of relics and shrines shown in the Jerusalem of today to one who is a student of the Bible.

After the address the company was served with ice cream and cake by a committee consisting of Mrs. J. M. Raymond, Mrs. Wallace, Mrs. Perry and Miss Randolph.

FRIENDS CALL TO RID AUIEU

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Cooper, who have been spending the winter at the home of Mrs. Mary Randall on North Florida avenue, had made their reservations to leave for their home in Toledo, Iowa, Tuesday and on Saturday evening the following guests called to bid them adieu and wish for their speedy return Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Bullard, Mr. and Mrs. Z. Barager, Mr. and Mrs. John Sheffield, Mrs. Blanchard and Mrs. Foster. Mr. Randall delighted all present with a number of recitations of both Irish and German dialect. Such wonderful memory of one his age is remarkable.

ROLLINS SCHOOL PLAYERS

On Wednesday night there was an appreciative audience at the G. A. R. hall to greet the Rollins school players, from Rollins college, at Winter Park, under the direction of Mrs. Orpha Pope-Gray.

Much worthy praise is accorded both the students from "Little Theater Work Shop" and the director, which gave the four act plays. Those participating were Misses Elmer Presney, Marion Mulligan, Violet Sutherland and Margaret Boiler and Messrs. Monroe Arroyo and Frank Abbott.

Each took the part well special mention is due Miss Marion Mulligan who was especially good in parts portrayed by her.

Mrs. Coleman, president of the St. Cloud Woman's club, was fortunate in securing this company; the purpose of which was to raise money for the White way on Massachusetts avenue in front of the Memorial library.

A. G. DEMMON MAKING IMPROVEMENT

A. G. Demmon, the genial taxi man, is building on and remodeling his home on Wisconsin avenue. Just recently he has had his lots on the corner Florida and Cypress avenues plowed and planted to water oaks.

Dear Uncle Sam: I have been in the sanitarium just one week. The Doctor says my trouble will yield to treatment in time. I don't know how long I am going to have to stay here before that time arrives. I hope this will find you well and enjoying yourself. Take good care of Charlie, you know as well as I do that some one will have to look after him and keep him out of mischief. Remember me to all my friends.

With my very best wishes to you and Charlie, I remain yours most truly.

ALL OUT OF SORTS?

So Was This St. Cloud Woman Who Tells Her Experience.

All too often women accept their pains and aches as natural to their sex. They fail to realize that weak kidneys are often to blame for that backache, those headaches, dizzy spells and that tired, depressed feeling. Thousands have found new health and strength by helping the weakened kidneys with Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic. This St. Cloud case is one of many:

Mrs. J. W. Smith, Kentucky Ave., says: "I had such a miserable pain in the small of my back I couldn't get a wink of sleep at night. My kidneys became disordered and my feet swelled so badly I couldn't wear my shoes. There were puffy spots beneath my eyes. I got Doan's Pills at Edwards' Drug Store and was so cured."

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Pills—the same that Mrs. Smith had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

A CLEAR SKIN

Bright, sparkling eyes, cheeks with the glow of health, a skin as smooth as velvet, the ideal we all strive to attain. No blemishes, no eruptions, no blackheads, no marks to destroy the even texture of healthy skin.

The secret is pure, red blood free from poisons and impurities, blood that makes the body glow and radiate health, blood that drives pimples, boils, eruptions, eczema and skin blemishes from the system.

LEONARD'S ELIXIR FOR THE BLOOD makes rich red blood, drives the impurities out, brings the glow of health. Use it now. Insist on LEONARD'S. Refuse substitutes. At all druggists.

Danger In Coughs That Hang-On

Neglected coughs often lead to worse trouble. Yet there is a simple method based on the famous Dr. King's New Discovery, which usually breaks the worst cough entirely in 24 hours.

Here is the method: You take just one teaspoonful and hold it in your throat for 15 or 20 seconds before swallowing it. It has a double action. It not only soothes and heals irritation, but also removes the phlegm and congestion which are the real cause of the coughing. So the most stubborn cough soon disappears completely.

Dr. King's New Discovery is for coughs, chest colds, bronchitis, spasmodic croup, etc. Fine for children, too—no harmful drugs. Very economical, as the dose is only one teaspoonful. At all good druggists. Ask for

To Those Who Judge Quality by Price

The quality of Ford cars can not be judged by the prices at which they are sold—because Ford prices are made possible by conditions that are absolutely unique in the automotive industry.

From mine to market the Ford car is the work of a single organization. The Company owns and operates the mines and forests that furnish the raw materials for its products. This material is carried over Ford transportation routes, fabricated in Ford mills, manufactured in Ford plants—and the finished product is sold to the public through the Ford dealer organization.

Thus there is but a single manufacturing profit on the car.

The following statement, previously made in an advertising message, is repeated here because of its great significance to the motoring public.

"If any other manufacturer endeavored to produce a car similar to the Ford, according to the high standards of quality in material and workmanship used by the Ford Motor Company and with the same tried and proved design, it would be impossible to offer it at anything like Ford prices. And it is well to note that even with less costly design they have not been able to meet Ford prices."

Spring Hats—Size 403 Millimeters

How would you like to wear a 400-millimeter collar? Or a 187-millimeter hat?

That's the way you'll buy 'em, if the British bill, which would require the use of metric units in place of English units in retail merchandising and transportation, become a law. The measure is now in committee in the House of Representatives.

But chances for the bill are slim—as well they should be. Powerful industries are opposing it. The American Railway Association, for instance, declares the change would cost the railroads the small sum of $325,833,000.

Chaos would follow the change, opponents say. Grocers would have to get new scales, new measures to take the place of peck, quart, bushel; butchers would have to measure out metric units of starch or flour or water by their recipes; and meters, water meters, tape measures, yardsticks all would have to be altered; the board measure in building would be changed to square decimeters, centimeters or ares.

Wouldn't that be pleasant? But don't worry too much. Then to one you'll be able to buy a 16-inch (406 millimeters) collar next spring and a 7 3/8 (187 millimeters) hat!

Chamber of Commerce Sponsors More St. Cloud School Room

In absence of President Landis, Mr. T. G. Moore, vice-president, presided, asked Mr. L. U. Zimmerman to say grace. After reading of minutes, by Secretary Rolfe, the following guests were introduced: Mr. Wm. Foster and son, John, wife and son, John, Jr., of Neshanic, N. J., were presented by Mr. W. Porter. Mr. Porter was introduced by Mr. Moore. Mr. Porter said he had come to St. Cloud to live with his life long friend A. M. Dougherty, and seeing the need of the Chamber of Commerce having a home made some splendid remarks along this line. Expressing his willingness to see this through if it after due consideration was thought to be wise. This matter will be taken under advisement. Mr. S. W. Porter, chairman of the citizens committee, working on conjunction with the county commissioners the meeting of the board it was decided that in event the bond election carries that Mr. Feun, of Osceola Bank of Kishwaukee, and Mr. B. L. Steen, president of the Peoples Bank of St. Cloud, and Mr. J. K. Conn, president of the Bank of St. Cloud will serve as bond trustees, without pay. The following petition was presented to the Chamber of Commerce, and was unanimously signed and supported by those present:

Petition To the Board of Public Instruction of Osceola County, Florida. Whereas, we, the undersigned, being residents of Special Tax School District No. 1 of the County of Osceola and State of Florida, commonly known as the St. Cloud District, and being duly qualified electors residing within the said Special Tax School District No. 1, deem it advisable, and desire the issuance of bonds for the said Special Tax School District No. 1, for the purpose of acquiring, building, enlarging, furnishing or otherwise improving building or school grounds, for the exclusive use of the public free schools within the said Special Tax School District No. 1. Now, therefore, we, the undersigned, more than twenty-five (25) per cent of the duly qualified electors residing within the said Special Tax School District No. 1, desire that bonds in the sum of One Hundred Thirty Thousand Dollars ($130,000.00) be issued by said Special Tax School District No. 1, for the purpose of acquiring, building, enlarging, furnishing or otherwise improving buildings or school grounds, for the exclusive use of the public free schools within the said Special Tax School District No. 1, the proceeds derived from the sale of the said bonds to be used for the purposes set forth in this petition, and we hereby petition your Honorable Body to take such steps as may be necessary under and in pursuance of the provisions of Chapter No. 8543, Acts of the 1921 Legislature, and any acts supplementary thereto, or amendatory thereof. J. F. Bailey offered to take one of the three petitions and see that the other two were circulated. Prof. Zetrouer, the principal of the school, was present and told of the congested condition of the schools this year. Others remarked that we had sacrificed many families because their children could not get to the school. Mr. S. W. Porter announced that Mr. Stone who has a Chautauque organization which will be in every county of Iowa during the summer, has become interested in St. Cloud purchasing a lake front lot, said if the Chamber of Commerce would provide a picture of our lake he would show it for six days in each city visited with the Chautauque free of cost. This matter was referred to the advertising committee to get prices. THE 4 P'S AND MID-WEST MEETING The 4 P's and Mid-West Union held their regular meeting at the Tourist Club house Tuesday afternoon, April 6th with a good attendance. President Wm. Denoyer presiding opened the meeting by all sing "America" followed by prayer by Rev. Leonard. The minutes of last meeting were read and approved. The Treasurer reported $12.21 in the treasury. The Wisconsin and Minnesota associations were asked to come forward and were welcomed by the officers and members of the 4 P's and Mid-West Union. The Wisconsin treasure turned over $3.30. A letter of greeting was read from Dr. John Cole, of Illinois, followed by a reading by Mrs. S. H. Smith, "Florida is calling you". A poem by Mrs. Marskey, of Wisconsin. An experience meeting was then called for and many interesting things were told by those here this winter and by those who came here in the early days fifteen years ago. A song composed by Rev. H. Frank Kenney, "St. Cloud" was much appreciated. Mrs. Mosker gave a poem "For a home" a reading by Mr. Walker, "Our Flag". After the announcements were made all were invited to remain while tea was served. Meeting adjourned to meet again the first Tuesday in November. MRS. R. LONG, Secretary Prof. ANNIVERSARY OF THE G. A. R. The Tourist hall accommodated a large crowd of Veterans, their wives and friends last Tuesday, and one of the very best festivals was enjoyed by the multitude. Everybody seemed happy, hungry and hearty; and the well-laden tables were just kept full, although the many folks did their best to empty them. An immense cake, embellished with borders of tapers formed the beautiful and toothsome centerpiece on the main table, but that was only in keeping with all the other good things furnished by the W. R. C., who always do things right. Before the "Boys" were too full of food, they gave three cheers and a tiger for the W. R. C. Then the women returned to compliment by three cheers and a tiger for the Veterans. Everybody there was fully in harmony with the occasion, which was for the purpose of commemorating the birthday of the Grand Army of the Republic, and which was so effectively done that the day will not be forgotten by any who were there. Good roads do more to develop a county than any other one thing.

Splendid Program Enraptures Music Lovers Tuesday Evening

A splendid audience filled the Presbyterian church on Tuesday night to listen to one of the best musical programs ever presented in the city. Rev. J. A. Callan made well chosen remarks of gratitude to those who have shown friendship for the church at all times, especially since they have been building. Particularly were they in debt to those who were to give the musical program as they are all busy people and real sacrifice to assist in putting on the program. The program started off with instrumental trio by Ralph Volverson, Chas. Danneberg and Miss Carol Henry, the applause was so prolonged that they responded with an encore, Wm. Sealbridge sang beautifully "The Rose", Messrs. Dawley, Porter, Landis and Bennett, who have pleased audiences on many occasions this season, also responded to an encore. The solo by Mrs. Lindholm, who has a remarkable contralto voice, was well received. Mrs. Reichel, Mr. Sealbridge and Mr. Perry delighted with "Praise Ye" by Verdi. Mrs. C. C. Rolfe with her sweet soprano sang "Yesterday and today" by Sprague, as encore "Mighty Like a Rose". Next was an intermission for change of scene. The scene alone was worth the price of admission. The decoration so artistic with vines and lilies with the little white picket fence behind which sat little Doris Johnson, Jimmie Conn, Mary Louis Cockerill and Carolyn June Cockerill with their faces radiant with delight with people petals on their heads. Mrs. Wright came out in the choir left above them and sang "An Old Fashioned Garden" as she started the chorus marching from either side through the gate with pretty costumes carrying wreaths of flowers assisted in singing the chorus. Mesdames Brammar, Johnson, Scott, Coleman and Misses Grace Williams and Nina Lou Landis. Miss Aline Moon was the old fashioned "Miss" sitting in a swing receiving kisses from the old fashioned lover Clarence Liggett. The piano solo by Miss Gayla M. Lee was so well received, she graciously responding to the encore. Mrs. Reichel and Mr. Sealbridge whose voices blended wonderfully in "Hosanna", by Handel. Mr. R. Ifo who was to give Violin solo being absent from the city the Male quartet consented to again sing. Mrs. Reichel and Mr. Lindholm, Mr. Sealbridge and Mr. Drayton sang a splendid number in closing they also responding to an encore. Some remarks over heard were "It is the best heard in ten years", others "never attended any better in the city". The purpose of this splendid program, the proceeds of which were to be applied on the purchase of a pipe organ for the church.

POPULAR THEATRE
MONDAY AND TUESDAY

Powerful dramatic pyrotechnics as well as the very real physical flames of a blazing sea of oil let loose upon an isolated house by the opening of reservoir floodgates, make "Flaming Waters" one of the most unusual and spectacular pictures of modern times. The production stands out as an epic of the oil fields, with all the romance and color incident to a locale that has seldom been filmed; certainly not with the ability which characterizes F. Harmon Weight's development of this tense story. Director Weight will be remembered for the intricacies and warmth of his handling of "Dracula With A Million," and he has managed to invest "Flaming Waters," a totally different and more sensational tale with something of the same human quality and sentiment. A corking cast is headed by Malcolm McGregor, Pauline Garon, Mary Carr, John Miljan, Johnny Gough and Mayme Kelso, all of whom do splendidly in the roles assigned to them. "Flaming Waters" appears for the first time locally at the Popular Theatre when it begins a two day run next Monday and Tuesday.

PROGRESS AND PROSPERITY

MONDAY APRIL 12th
$2,000,000 FOR GOOD ROADS

To the Voters of Osceola County, Florida.

Dear Sir or Madam:

We, the undersigned committee, having been appointed by the various civic organizations of the County to advise and collaborate with the County Commissioners in working out plans for a $2,000,000 Road Bond Issue, beg to report as follows:

We indorse and recommend the plan of building approximately eighty miles of additional hard surfaced roads and a Bond Issue of $2,000,000, as set forth by the County Commissioners in their call for an election to be held April 12th.

We believe that the expenditure of this money will be judiciously handled by the Bond Trustees, composed of B. L. Steen, President Peoples Bank of St. Cloud; L. E. Fenn, Vice-President Bank of Osceola County; J. K. Conn, President Bank of St. Cloud. These men have agreed to serve without compensation.

The roads to be constructed are as equitably distributed throughout the county as it is possible to make them under the existing circumstances, and will serve advantageously a vast majority of the people.

We, therefore, respectfully and earnestly urge that each and every qualified voter in Osceola County go to the polls on Monday, April 12, and cast their ballots for this progressive program of development.

Respectfully submitted,

S. W. PORTER, St. Cloud, Chairman,
D. L. AUTREY, Kissimmee, Vice-Chairman.
VICTOR M. HILL, Narcoossee,
T. G. MOORE, St. Cloud,
J. WADE TUCKER, Kissimmee, Secretary,
Osceola County Advisory Committee.

To the Citizens of Osceola County, Florida.

Dear Sir or Madam:

Whether Osceola County will continue to make progress, or face about and join the procession of numerous once flourishing counties, rests with you and every other citizen of Osceola County. That we should turn backwards is unthinkable.

The growth, prosperity, and the real basis development of our county are dependent largely upon good roads. Eighty miles of additional hard surfaced roads will shove our good county ten years into the future, and will open wide the doors of community progress.

You are called upon to insure the future of Osceola County. You and the other citizens are earnestly urged to go to the polls on Monday, April 12, and vote for a county-wide $2,000,000 Road Bond Issue. Agriculture is the backbone of business prosperity, and good roads are the backbone of successful agriculture.

Think it over!—then VOTE, VOTE, VOTE!

Yours very truly,

H. A. WHEELING, Secretary,

Youth of Nation Tops Death List in U. S. Auto Fatalities

YOUTH pays the heaviest toll in annual automobile fatalities. From five to fifteen years is the period when the greatest number of fatal accidents occur, for both sexes. The chart shows the age distribution of automobile deaths for men and women as given in the latest mortality figures prepared by the government. These figures, says the Stewart-Warner Safety Council for the prevention of automobile accidents, emphasize the need for more playgrounds and increased safety education among school children.

Complete statistics are not possible, as only 85 per cent of the United States keeps mortality records. About 22,000 a year is generally conceded to be the annual number of automobile fatalities. For 8,821 males known to have been killed in one year there were only a third as many women, or 2,845, in spite of the fact that the male population is only 4 per cent greater than the female.

This chart does not take into consideration the 600,000 Americans who are injured annually by automobiles. Such figures are not available except in certain states, but that boys and girls again make up the bulk of such casualties is indicated by the records of New York state kept for the first nine months of 1925. Here 11,706, or practically one-third of the 35,392 injured, were under fifteen years of age.

He was taken ill on March 28, and almost immediately went into a state of coma from which it was impossible to arouse him. He never married, and is survived by twelve nieces and nephews and their children.

What I Like Best in Florida

While I have been in Florida
I've seen queer and pretty sight
I've picked all kinds of flowers
And had many shiver bites.
I've seen the shiny crocodile,
And the squirming snake,
I've felt the gentle breezes,
And have rowed upon the lake
I like your sunny climate,
And your bright and glorious days,
I've been to many of your sea-ports,
And seen most all your bays,
But of all the places I have been,
In this sunny land of flowers,
I like the "Wonder City" best.
This "Wonder City" of ours.

MESSAGE TO BOYS AND GIRLS

When a octogenarian Francis W. Jarvis' mother sent a letter from her home called "West Cottage", Evanston, Ill., to boys and girls everywhere her own prophetic appealing message as follows:

"The world will be what you make it.
Little people:
It will be as you shape it.
Little people:
Then be studious and brave,
And your country help to save,
Little people."

When we walk into the gray
Little people:
And you into the day,
Little people:
We will becom you along,
With a very tender song,
Little people."

PLEASED WITH ST. CLOUD

Mrs. Geo. Conger and her daughter, Mrs. Blanch Conger-Study and husband, of Springfield, New York, who have occupied the Mank cottage, on 11th street left Wednesday, in their Franklin touring car for their home. They report spending a very fine winter in St. Cloud and their intention to return next winter.

When the voice of nature calls us
As we view some landscape fair
There is something that entralls us,
Akin to music, soft and rare;
Then the hidden springs of feeling,
Call for outlet more and more
And with rapture o'er us stealing
We sing of GROCETERIA ROSE.

The Rural Chair

One of the most sensible remedies proposed to check the gradually growing drift of population from country to city has been advanced by Dr. Paul E. Tisworth, president of Washington College, Chestertown, Md.

Dr. Tisworth plans to establish a rural chair at his college with a dean "who has lived in the city but who knows and loves the country."

The new course would include, besides regular cultural subjects, work in chemistry, particularly of soil and fertilizers. Students would not be expected to turn farmers. Rather, the purpose of the agricultural subjects would be to give them a better understanding of the farmer's life. Students would major in "rural sociology" and "rural economics."

Says Dr. Tisworth: "The country needs young medical students far more than the city, and a country doctor, or a country lawyer, can make a good living. After all, it is no matter living. After all, it is not a matter but how much he can save, and it is much cheaper to live in the country than in the cities."

Progress of this new rural chair will be interesting. And students of sociology, who know the trend from farm to city, are hoping it will serve in some way to send the college-trained country boys and girls back to their own home communities.

TRUCK OUTLOOK BRIGHT DESPITE HEAVY RAINFALL

GAINESVILLE, Fla., April 6.—In spite of delays to planting, caused by rains, and unfavorable growing conditions, the result of cold weather and frost, the present outlook for truck crops in Florida is much better than might be expected. H. A. Marks, agricultural statistician for the bureau of agricultural economics, division of crop and livestock estimates, declared in a summary of the agricultural situation.

The average of truck crops to move out of the state during the coming season is lighter than usual, the statistician states, because of the poor weather conditions.

Bean plantings were light on the lower east coast, and shipments to January 15 were mostly from the Lake Okechobee section. Mr. Marks adds. While much of their acreage for harvest since that date has been lost from cold and heavy rains, the shipments from that section have made up the greater part of the light movement from the state.

Mr. and Mrs. Sallie

—being the Confessions of a new wife—

Illustrated by Paul Robinson

Olady's Baker

A Royal Host

"U sosleda chata by'a,
U sosleda junka by'a
A u mene ne chatinka
Nema schastwee, nema junka—"

The song the young Cosack was singing in Russian had the enchanting melody of a folk-song and then suddenly and to our surprise he sang in English the same lines:

"Sallie, Sallie, Sallie,
My neighbor has a home,
My neighbor has a wife,
I haven't even a little house,
Not even lock—not even a wife."

The first verse ended. Evidently Barry had told the young Cosack my name.

"Get up, Sallie," whispered Barry. "It's a pretty little custom of theirs and when the song's finished you're supposed to acknowledge the compliment by touching his glass."

The song ended as I arose to my feet, at the same time touching his glass with mine. Then we drained the slender goblets of the delicious wine.

The officer was introduced all around. After he was seated Barry and Curtiss made several attempts to start a conversation about the Bolshevik situation in his former country but he was adroitly evasive each time.

"Permit me to order a little repast," he begged, "something typical of the old days. For tonight at least allow me to be the host."

The men in our party exchanged glances of admiration for this man who, though pressed for funds, was instinctively a gentleman whose happiness it was to treat us as if we were his guests. Don't worry, whispered Barry in a hushed voice, intercepting a look of anxiety on my face, "we'll fix it at the last. It would be embarrassing to refuse. They're sticklers for hospitality and he hasn't got used to the fact yet that he's running this place to make out a livelihood."

I played up to the game. "How lovely to have you order for us," I cried, "every time I meet an American friend over here they rave about the marvelous food they've had in some Russian place and so far I haven't had any real queer dishes at all."

He smiled. "She's quite young, n'est-ce pas?" he asked Andre Molliere, "and like the Venetians."

We overheard. "What does that mean Barry. Tell me for goodness sake."

"Here's where my scant knowledge of Russian stands me in good stead," he replied, "as it happens Captain Tchertkov has just paid you a very pretty compliment. He has likened you to the Spring."

Glancing quickly up I met the Cosack's eyes.

"May I have the pleasure of dance?" he asked.

I wanted to dance with him because he executed even the most difficult steps with more than ordinary grace but his foreign manner of bestowing his attention upon me was so marked that I was beginning to feel a bit uncomfortable.

"I have this with my husband," I replied. Then nodded to Curtiss who was quick to respond.

"What's the matter?" he asked as we threaded our way through the crowded space, "don't you like our new playmate?"

"Indeed I do, Curtiss. I think he's most interesting, but he fairly takes my breath away."

"He is rather a fast worker. But his just their way of being polite. He doesn't mean to offend."

"MY, but you're a peach!" I exclaimed pressing his hand, "not every husband would be so beautiful and fine."

The music stopped and we returned to our little table against the wall.

The waiter arrived and spread out a dainty feast. The food was strange and a delicate aroma of spicy sauce permeated the air.

"Tell us all the names please as we go along," I begged.

The Cosack smiled, now perfectly at ease and apparently deriving a great deal of pleasure from introducing us to the famous Russian fare.

"The first course is Myaso-Stroganoff."

"And its wonderful too," commented Lemoyne.

"Oh, it has mushrooms and—"

I hesitated.

"Tyr bits of beef," put in Lemoyne.

"And though I don't taste it I know it has sour cream because there was never a Russian dish served without it," supplied Barrington Pierce.

Tchertkov smiled again and nodded his head.

"Yes, this is the piece de resistance of any meal, but it is not perfect without some what?"

"Some what?"

"You would call it tea," he explained in slow painstaking English, "but you will not recognize it as the same."

They learned that the Russians always drink their tea hot and in glasses instead of cups, into which, the Cosack explained, they drop a few spoonfuls of "Tchadaya" or mixed jams of various sorts.

"I've never tasted anything as delicious," I declared, "its just like punch."

When I go home I'm going to serve it this way all the time."

Tchertkov was pleased.

"If Madame finds that pleasant to the taste she will be encouraged with the next course of which we are about to partake."

The courses were served in small portions which made the entire meal appetizing and because too the time was almost morning we relished the tempting food.

"Now pyroshki," he announced, passing what I presumed to be cakes. "Flap-jacks and cheese," avowed Curtiss after the first bite.

"Sometimes with cheese—yes and sometimes with sweets between and sometimes with curries," agreed our host.

"And what is this last, the dessert?" I inquired, "its much better than our ice cream though they're not unlike."

"It's sugared fruit or Sacharni Moroz," he said. "When I was a boy I remember the man coming around shouting 'Sacharni Moroz!' I would rush to the window and there they would stand with Sacharni Moroz under their hats—which as you know are very tall."

We laughed gayly. "Its sugared-fruit," I repeated. "Sacharni Moroz." It has a mistle like almost like a folk-song."

"Yes," agreed Lemoyne. "Imagine just plain ice-cream being called by anything as poetic as that."

The repast finished, we settled down comfortably for a talk.

"Won't you tell us something about yourself?" I asked, "and your friends. I assure you its not from curiosity I ask but from sincere and friendly interest."

His face, which had been wreathed in smiles, now grew sad.

"There is not much that one can say," he said, "only that we are fortunate to have got out and not waited until the last. We are young and can start up the hill again, but the old ones—"

We all laughed.

"Some of the opposing forces declare that the Bible forbids bobbing," declared Lemoyne Danille.

"Really? That's interesting. Do you know where?" asked Andre Molliere.

"Yes, I do, although my knowledge of the book of Books is scant. It's the fifteenth verse of the Eleventh chapter of First Corinthians—it reads—"

"But if a woman have long hair it is a glory to her, for her hair is given her for a covering."

"Heav! You did that with quite an air," Curtiss announced.

"I have an argument for those who bob," put in Andre Molliere. I understand that a well-known scientist is contending that in the next generation we will all be hairless. One German thinker came out the other day in a concise article on the subject claiming that we lose, as we progress, more and more hair! Of course it's based on evolution because he mentioned the fact that each stage of development, beginning with the monkey, produces less and less hair."

"By jove, bald heads do give the effect of intelligence," exclaimed Curtiss. "And now that we are confronted with the facts in the case there is not anything specially intellectual about a man with a shock of hair," he teasingly threw in Barry's direction because, like most musicians, wore his not extremely, but moderately long.

While the others were laughing at Curtiss, Lemoyne lending slightly across me, said to Barry who was at my right, "I didn't know how you felt about bobbing. I've often longed to cut mine but now, thank goodness, I did not."

It was a small thing in itself but her desire to please Barrington Pierce was plainly evident even in the most trivial affairs.

It was almost daylight when we said goodbyes. While the Cosack was busy Curtiss had adroitly paid the check. We exchanged cards and addresses and I had the psychic feeling that it was not the last time that our paths would cross.

The next afternoon there came a gentle tap-tap-tapping at my door. In response to my invitation to enter, the door opened quickly and in walked Lemoyne.

"O, mon enfant!" she began speaking French as she invariably did under great emotional stress, "word has just come from my manager that I am to sing 'Moussu' at the Opera Comique. It is my favorite role and the time I've had the opportunity to do the part."

"How perfectly cooking!" I interrupted, now wide awake, and catching the enthusiasm of Lemoyne who was informally encouraged in the chaise-longue, "when? Oh, I hope while we are here."

"That's one reason I'm so happy about it all. Today is Monday, tomorrow's Tuesday and then—Wednesday is the night of nights—at least for Lemoyne. I've phoned Barry and you three will be in a box. I'll do it much better if he is there," she added about, though I was sure she meant to frame the sentence only in thought.

"Today, tonight and tomorrow I'll be shut up with my teacher in order to rehearse. Of course it's in my repertoire—all opera singers know the famous roles," she answered the question I was about to ask.

"I hope I didn't wake you but I wanted so far you to know. I might as well tell you that you've won your way straight into my heart. It's intangible—this thing called friendship," she announced wistfully, "and not often in a lifetime does one have more than one real friend. The theosophists would say that in a former life you and I were attracted or closely connected in some way and held by an eternal bond—and perhaps that's the most intelligent explanation for mutual attraction after all. You've never been a stranger to me although I've known you only a very short time. I hope I'm not being too sentimental," she apologized, "but I believe in presenting flowers, if one truly deserves them, as we go along." She blushed slightly, almost self-conscious because of her frank revelation of her affection for me.

"I feel the same way about you too," I agreed, "and I'm so flattered that you like me. You who have so many admirers and hundreds of friends—"

"Not friends, acquaintances, my dear. Until I met you, Sallie, I never had a real, true friend, to whom I could unburden my heart."

"Why do you like me?" I asked.

"There're others, great celebrities who seek you out and worship at your shrine. You're a wonderful singer and I—well, I'm just little old me."

She laughed outright.

"But 'little old me' just happens to have that beautiful gift of understanding and of being interested in other people and of course, that is the real key to friendship. With the others I am always conscious of a great gulf of misunderstanding and doubt."

"Really?"

"Yes, I realize," she continued, "that so many of my so-called friends flock around me because I've been fortunate enough to acquire in a measure that subtle thing that the world calls Fame. Were I a nonentity, and still myself, how far would these same friends go?"

This business of worshipping those who have gratified their own ambition and forged ahead is not fair, Followers of the arts," she added, "get a full sense of satisfaction out of their work—a thrill that more than compensates they usually have made to attain success and, with it come the plaudits of the world. If I were not a singer but a manikin in some obscure shop I would not be admired for myself or my personality or my own individual attainments, no, I would be lost with these half-million other girls in Paris who are much more deserving because their work itself is without color or joy."

"I think you're wrong, Lemoyne," I said, "people would still seek you out for your charm."

"You haven't lived in the greater meaning of the word, mon enfant, nor have you perceived the husks on which most friendships are fed. Fame is the most friendship thing in the world," she continued, her eyes holding a grave and pensive light. "It is the 'open sesame' to anything that its possessor might wish to obtain. It clothes one with popularity, golden opinions, and endless praise. It even gives one the freedom of unconventionality (with no risk of being anathematized) even to the point of immorality at the same time the assurance that any aberration will be condoned on the ground of temperament—temperament," she repeated, "that clever piece of propaganda put out by artists themselves as an excuse for their non-conformity to rules to which others are inexorably bound."

"You shouldn't be cynical, Lemoyne," I remonstrated, "you're too lovely and young."

"It's not cynicism, n'est-ce pas, but rebellion at the injustice of things as they are. Not for myself but for others who have not had the good-fortune to attract the attention of the fast-footed nymph that the world has labelled renown. But come, I must not start your day with such analytical reflections. I'll leave you now so that you may dress. Your very nice husband is patiently waiting down stairs for you to join him on a personally conducted tour of the Louvre."

"We'll walk over. Its a glorious day. Tell Curtiss please that I'll be right down," I called to her as she stood in the doorway. The door closed.

I felt that I had peeped into the innermost recesses of an extraordinary woman's heart.

Lemoyne's Debut

A cozy place is the Opera Comique. In spite of its tier after tier of galleries and its wide parquet one has the feeling that here are handed together a group of persons who love music for itself alone. Unlike the famous Opera House—or the Academie National de Musique et de Danse—with its magnificent stairway, luxurious loges and gigantic chandelier.

"Every seat is taken, I do believe," I announced to Barrington Pierce, who was seated with me in a box to the right of the stage.

"Yes," he nodded, glancing with approval over the well filled house. "They come year after year to hear the same operas. They greet them like old friends. Then too, Opera is not a luxury to them, but a necessity like bread and wine. Besides," he continued, "the admission here is quite within reach of all, not more than the movies at home. The other Opera House is quite different. There you sit next to tourists, nouveaux riches and others who come merely because they think it is the thing to do or because they have a new gown to display between the acts as they parade the length of the promenade."

"You've absolutely sized it up," I agreed nodding my head. "We wait the other evening to hear Faust. The production was unusually fine and the ballet especially good but somehow I felt the lackadaisical way in which it was received. An entrancing Marguerite was Jane Laval and the music in the last act reached an appealing and magnificent climax but the audience was too affected to show its appreciation by applause."

"The occupants of our box included the Lowell DeWights, Barrington Pierce and myself. That afternoon Curtiss received an important cable from the office and as a result he had made an engagement to meet a business associate who had just arrived in Paris and with whom he was to dine. The DeWights were planning to occupy another box with friends but Lemoyne, insisting that I should be there, asked them to come with us and act as chaperones. She had rare intuition and seemed to sense the fact that Curtiss would never have consented to my going with the young musician alone.

"I can hardly wait to hear Lemoyne, she's bound to be superb!" commented Mr. DeWight who was one of her countless admirers and at the same time one of her staunchest friends.

"How did it happen, so unexpectedly?" I inquired.

"Well," began Barry, "it seems that Miss Kounessoff, who is a favorite here, was to have sung the part but her son was quite ill and she broke the engagement. She's really remarkable though well in her forties she has the figure, voice and personality of a girl in her teens. So you see Lemoyne will have an easy time filling her place."

"Oh, but you don't doubt for a moment that she will?" I questioned, anxiously scanning his face.

"She CAN do it. She has the voice and is in splendid condition."

"Despite the cocktails she took in our honor the day we were at your study for tea?"

"Oh, I doubt if they had anything in them but orange juice. Lemoyne is, first of all, a clever actress, and she pretended to be drinking that day to tease me or rather to make me become alarmed about her voice. But I knew Lemoyne," he spoke in hushed tones, "she's acted so much that unless one knows her intimately one is never certain when she is playing to the audience or when she is being herself."

"But I'm sure she'll make a tremendous hit tonight!" I exclaimed, going back to the former subject. "Let's pray."

"Your unselfish interest and loyalty for her are unusually fine," he remarked. "You have meant much to Lemoyne and," he caught my gaze and held it unwaveringly with his own "much to me."

I blushed for there was sincerity and warmth in his vibrant voice. "Shhhhhhh—" hissed the crowd to the conversationalists all over the house and just then the curtains were drawn.

"They demand absolute silence," whispered Mr. DeWight.

Just as Barry had said the audience was "in rapport" with the singers from the very first note of Massenet's melodious score. The stillness was so marked that one occasionally heard a snarl—the interest so intense that it could almost be felt.

From the very first I sensed the fact that Lemoyne was not giving her best. She sang superficially without colour or allure.

She'll do better in the next act when she sings "Adieu, my little table," announced Barry when the curtain went down and the lights flared up. "The first act doesn't really give her a chance."

I was greatly relieved. During the intermission the DeWights began discussing the amazing number of flowers and telegrams that Lemoyne had received wishing her success.

"By jove! I've done a terrible thing," said Harrington Pierce. "I forgot to send anything. I get more absent-minded daily. I do believe. But Lemoyne knows it's a stupid failing of mine and will forgive my negligence. I am sure."

"Women often forgive the lack of attention but it hurts just the same," I replied lowering my voice. I knew Lemoyne's adoration for him and I felt sad to think Barry had neglected her on her night of nights.

Once again the curtain was drawn and revealed Manon and her dashing Chevalier in the happy atmosphere of their little home. Manon has heard that her husband is about to be released and is under great emotional stress when she begins to sing farrows! to the little table and to her cozy surroundings which have been filled with unspeakable bliss.

"Now, now," whispered Barry leaning forward and at the same time keeping time with her forefinger to the melancholy tune.

Again, however, I was conscious of the lack of some vital quality in the singers' voices. I had seldom heard the aria before without being moved to tears. It is true that the technical part of the work was well done, the notes were brilliant and like icicles were sharp and crystal clear. But the thing that makes the role of Manon so appealing and touches the heart of the simple working-man is the sympathy created for the innocent girl-wife. It was plain to see that Lemoyne had failed to produce the desired effect.

"Great Scott," murmured Barry "something's wrong with Lemoyne, I've never heard her do anything as poorly as that. She simply sang the words and kept time to the music; that's not enough. She won't even get by if she doesn't wake up to the part!"

Suddenly I had a idea. I had been thinking over what he had said about forgetting to remember Lemoyne with a greeting of flowers of even a note. I knew how this neglect would subconsciously enter Lemoyne's very being and unfit her for the tremendous emotional task.

"Listen, Barry," I said, "will you do something for me?"

"You have only to ask, my cherie," he replied with an eager light in his luminous eyes.

"All right. Good! Go back stage—find Lemoyne—speak to her—tell her we're all with her make her understand that you are too, that it means everything to you whether she puts it over or not tonight. Please, Barry, as he hesitated, "you've got to. It's only right."

With a nod of his head and a quick apology to the DeWights he left the box.

There was more than the usual pause between the second and third acts. The audience began to grow restless. From one of the outer galleries someone hissed. Then a cat-call unmistakably on the air! In a few moments the theatre was charged with unrest, someone began stamping their feet and the noise reverberated throughout the house.

I began to grow more and more nervous. What could be going on behind the scenes? I began to regret the fact that I had interfered, for it was possible that the interview with Barry had only served to make matters worse. I squirmed uneasily in my seat.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

April 4, 1926.

St. Cloud Tribune.

My dear Mr. Johnson:

If I had not formed a great liking for St. Cloud and its people during my recent visit, had not been impressed with a strong faith in its future as a prosperous and rapidly growing city, and had not promised to write you after my arrival home, I surely would not be devoting a goodly part of this lovely Easter day to fulfilling that promise.

Leaving St. Cloud on March 18, it has required more than two weeks to arrive, stopping as we did two days in Jacksonville, four days in Augusta, and five days in Washington.

During much of the journey, my thoughts was of St. Cloud, the soldier colony of Florida, its start "from the ground" fifteen years ago, the practical efficiency of the place for 5-ars, its wake up of less than two years ago with the incoming of new blood and new capital, and the promise which seems plainly written so that "he who runs may read," that from now on "push ahead" is to be the shibboleth of the "Wonder City".

But in this communication, I have not time to give more than slight reference to your Chamber of Commerce with its "live wire", Secretary Rolfe, and its scores upon scores of active workers, or to the big investments which have recently been made by the Steen brothers, by G. C. Hunter, and by numerous other new timers and old timers in St. Cloud.

Instead I wish to occupy the balance of space allotted me to one thing which if it can be attained will benefit many people, many people now in St. Cloud and very many more who will come there.

St. Cloud is a soldier colony, the home today of more than two hundred men who fought in the civil war for the preservation of the Union as "One Country under One Flag," something more than five hundred of these men are now living in the State of Florida, and more are coming, because transfer from the vigorous climate of the northern states to the balmy atmosphere of Florida lessens the life of every one of these old comrades.

While in St. Cloud I met numbers of these men who were visitors from Maine, Rhode Island, New York, Michigan, Iowa, etc. and all "were coming back," all dreaming of ending their days with their old comrades in St. Cloud.

California has the largest Grand Army Post in the United States today, because it has near Los Angeles a Soldiers Home. Florida at St. Cloud has the second largest Grand Army Post in the Union, which would very soon become the largest if it had a Soldiers' Home established there. I am advised that this subject has been taken of that a "Senator" has been seen and the effort discouraged, but I do not think the matter should drop there.

The Annual Encampment of the Grand Army of the Department of Florida meet at Lakeland on April 12 and 14. The Encampment of the Woman's Relief Corps and of the Daughters of Civil War Veterans will be held at the same time and place. Commander-in-chief John H. Luman and Past Commander-in-chief R. R. Vau-Sant and L. P. Arensburg will be present at the G. A. R. Encampment, and my suggestion is that at each of these three encampment resolutions be presented that urge the great need for the establishment of a soldiers home in Florida, and recommending St. Cloud as the proper place for it.

These resolutions should then, after adoption, go before the national encampments of these organizations, and their support sought.

Following the action of these bodies, the resolutions should be brought before the next Encampment of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. In both the action would surely be favorable, because the use of the home would be for them also. I hope you will find space for this matter this week since the Encampments meet before your next week's issue.

With best wishes, I am,

Yours sincerely,
ALBERT E. SHOLES.

Knows Our Friends

Instinctively, we all like the fellow who knows our friends. On that basis we are all going to like Paul Robinson because, starting this week, he is every week going to picture for us the trials and human weaknesses of our friends right here in this community in his new comic strip, "The Purdy's." It is just an average American home—showing pa, ma, grandpa, laughter and the kid brother. It's not slap-stick. Instead, real human-interest situations—Read "The Purdy's" every week in this paper.

"I'D LIKE TO OWN A HOME LIKE THAT!"

How many times have you expressed this thought as you saw a home which seemed to embody all of your own dream thoughts of what a home should be.

Did you know that there are such homes in St. Cloud, ready for you to move into and at a price to fit your income? One hundred complete homes will be built in St. Cloud in 1926 --- will you be one of the fortunate ones who will move into them?

These homes are being built on well laid out streets close to the business district, yet with just that bit of privacy that a real residential section provides for you.

Ten homes are now ready for the owners. These are five room houses with bath and all modern conveniences --- each house built from entirely original plans of the "Spaniflora" type, charming little homes of Stucco-Veneer, built on cement footing and solid block foundation with a composition roof.

*These homes are designed for discriminating persons who are looking for the place that is "Home" --- morning, noon and night. Real homes for real people.
